City Gets Relief as Storm Kills 2 In State

BREAK IN HEAT WAVE FOLLOWS SEVERE RAINS

WPA Workers Lose Lives Before 1,500 Fellow Employes as Lightning Hits Tree.

2 BOYS BURNED BY BOLT

Roads Flooded as Creek Overflows Banks at Loudonville; Massillon Hardest Hit.

Relief came to sweltering Mansfielders today with cooler weather which followed a storm late yesterday afternoon that swept over Ohio, leaving two dead, others injured, roads inundated and crops damaged.

The storm brought death to two WPA workers in Cleveland, both of whom were killed by a bolt of lightning as they sought shelter under a tree The victims, William Nolan and Dock Williams, were killed in view of 1,500 fellow workers.

Two 12-year-old boys, Samuel Mason and Charles Boyle, were severely burned at Akron when lightning struck the tree under which they were standing.

Wind Flattens Corn.

While there was little damage in the city, dirt roads south of Mansfield were badly washed, county commissioners said, especially in the vicinity of Lucas. Wind flattened corn crops in several areas and laid low a number of fields of uncut oats. Unthreshed grain was soaked and will delay threshing work, farmers said.

A torrential rain south of Loudonville sent a small creek up over its boundaries, overflowing into yards and fields. Roads between Loudonville and Greer were covered with a foot of water and in several places state route 54 was flooded to the depth of a foot. Trees were blown down and broken branches littered streets and highways. Crop damage was reported throughout the area as the result of the wind.

JAPAN READY TO BOW TO SOVIETS

Ready to Talk Peace on Terms Set Up by Moscow, Tokyo Advices Indicate.

(By International News Service)

TOKYO—Virtual Japanese capitulation to Moscow's "ultimatum" that peace be discussed on Soviet terms or not at all was indicated in official quarter tonight.

Soviet counter-proposals to Japan's peace proffer were reliably stated to be "roughly acceptable" to Japan's military and diplomatic authorities.

This was taken to mean that Japan is bowing to the Soviet demand that all Nipponese troops must be withdrawn from the disputed Siberian zone before peace negotiations can even be opened, and the Soviet's own conception of the true frontier must be regarded as the basis for talks.

Lest Japanese diplomats waver, Russia backed up its "get out" order to Nippon by sending over four light bombers to attack the enemy's lines at Changkufeng, according to unofficial reports.

After dropping several bombs as dozens of Japanese anti-aircraft shells burst around them, the Soviet planes flew off. Peace returned to the disputed border at nightfall, when the Soviet guns which had been shelling the Japanese lines all day ceased firing.

Across the border within Korea, the villages of Kojo and Sozan, which had already suffered heavily, again were bombarded.

WORKERS DENY CAMPAIGNING ON STATE TIME

Heads of Highway, Pension Divisions Say Employes Not Guilty of Accusations.

FOLLOWS AUDITOR'S VISIT

Wierman Points Out Highway Workers Aiding Davey But Outside Regular Hours.

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Secretary of State William J. Kennedy today ordered all disabled voters' and absentees' ballots in Warren county impounded, and went to Lebanon to investigate personally alleged "flagrant" abuses.

The unexpected visit to Mansfield yesterday by State Auditor Joseph Ferguson brought vigorous denials today from the heads of the state highway and aid for aged departments in the county that any of their employes are campaigning for Gov. Martin L. Davey on the state's time.

Ferguson spent a part of the afternoon in the city investigating reports that state workers were campaigning during office hours and that old age pensioners had been instructed to vote for Davey at the primary election.

Passes Up Offices.

The state auditor, who said he planned to obtain his information from "confidential sources" in the county, did not visit either the state highway or the old age pension offices.

Denying reports to Secretary of State William J. Kennedy that aid for aged employes in the county had campaigned for Davey at the state's expense and intimidated pensioners, M. W. Conley, head of the department in the county, said:

"I couldn't do that even if I wanted to. Anybody can find me at my office anytime during working hours. I try to run this department honestly and on the square."

HAND PAROLED

Convicted Galion Bank Robber Served Eight Years.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Wilbur Hand, of Toledo, was paroled today, effective Oct. 1, after serving eight years in prison for the hold-up of the Commercial Savings bank of Galion in 1930.

Hand was arrested when he walked into the bank lobby several days after the hold-up and announced that he understood he was wanted and said he came to see whether any bank employe could identify him as one of the bandits. They did.

After Hand was convicted, he was released on bond pending appeal. When he lost his appeal he disappeared and several months later was arrested in Washington, D. C. When Ohio officers arrived for Hand, it was found that he had escaped from the district jail.

He was re-captured several months later and began serving his sentence on July 9, 1930. He was transferred to the London prison farm in 1935.

Salesmen to 'Ring Dem Bells' In Helping Crusade Next Week

There will be a lot of doorbell ringing next week, and Mansfield citizenry can help the "Sales Mean Jobs" crusade by answering the bell and being nice to the ringer.

Two special days will be observed as a part of the crusade, and both will mean additional work for the outdoor sales people, according to Richard Fensch, general chairman of the campaign.

Wednesday has been designated as "Home Appliances Day" and every outdoor salesman interested in home appliances will be pushing door bells with determination throughout the day. Housewives will be reminded that they've probably needed a new toaster or electric iron for months.

Next Saturday, Aug. 13, will be "Home Furnishings Day" and inside and outside sales people will make a concerted drive to sell everything for the home from kitchen ranges down to carpet tacks.

Another feature of the week will be milk bottle tags which will go into every home in Mansfield the first of the week. Each tag will carry a list of about 50 household articles, merely as suggestions and reminders to the housewife. Every homemaker will be urged to read the list and check it against her own needs.

Special days will be arranged throughout the month with contests for sales people arranged by merchants, Fensch said.

No Mistake This Time—Corrigan's in New York

Corrigan Just Grins While New York's Thousands Cheer

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Cool and brash, young Douglas Corrigan rode triumphantly up lower Broadway today, grinning infectiously as the temperature rose and sweltering thousands cheered his progress, indifferent to the oppressive heat.

All the enthusiasm for his mad solo flight from New York to Dublin was let loose in a continuous roar that dinned upon his ears from the Battery to City hall.

Brokers and business men, bankers and stenographers, clerks and other office workers weren't slowed down a bit by the devitalizing humidity and the heat of the swarming sidewalks.

The tons of torn paper and ticker tape fell, the perspiring crowds yelled and shoved and Corrigan grinned, sitting on the back of an open car with James M. McGurrin, chairman of Mayor LaGuardia's reception committee, and the mayor's secretary, Stanley Howe.

In the second car rode Corrigan's brother, Harry, of Baltimore, and his wife, Anita. In the next car were Walter and Steve Reich, friends who helped Corrigan service his plane at Roosevelt field in the week Howard Hughes was making his round-the-world flight.

The imperturbable Corrigan grinned, just as he had grinned earlier in his hotel suite when he insisted anew he had made an honest mistake in flying to Ireland instead of to California.

The Irish were in high glee today and were claiming the hero as their own, Texas birth notwithstanding. But Corrigan, to the ones who were not Irish, was the simple mechanic who flew the wrong way and injected the vital-

LOS ANGELES — (U.P.) — An earthquake which caused houses to sway on their foundations in south Los Angeles last night apparently did no serious damage, police reported today.

The quake jarred furniture and rattled dishes, but that apparently was the extent of the damage. Hundreds of persons called police to report the disturbance.

Two tremblors were felt, the first at Huntington Beach at 5:58 p. m. PST (9:58 p. m. EDT) the second in Los Angeles shortly after 8:30 p. m.

Soon the mail carrier was staggering under bales of literature. Disney got a postoffice.

Reported Pay Cut Described As 'Donation'

Empire Workers Agree to Give Up 25 Per Cent of Wages for 3 Months.

What was reported yesterday as a wage reduction agreement at Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company—in the face of denials from both company and steel union officials—turned out today to be, not a wage cut, but an agreement of employes to "donate" part of their pay to the company to help get it "out of the woods."

The News-Journal learned this from a source it regards as unimpeachable. Asked to comment on the arrangement, Ralph Jenkins, assistant to James M. Hill, president of Empire, denied it. Hill could not be reached for a statement and was reported to be out of the city.

The agreement of employes to "donate" 25 per cent of their wages was reached in the latter part of June and became effective July 1, it was learned. It covers a three-month period.

Base Rate Unchanged.

Starting Oct. 1, employes will receive their full wages again unless the present agreement is extended or other action is taken. Approximately 700 men are affected.

There has been no change in the base wage rate as company officials have pointed out in denying a wage reduction in the last week. The contract the company has with the union, a CIO affiliate, did not enter into the negotiations and is not affected by the present temporary wage set-up, it was said. Outside officials of the CIO apparently were not called in or consulted during the negotiations.

No reduction in wages is shown in the plant's payroll which is made up according to rates provided in the contract. When the checks are made out, however, 25 per cent is deducted.

The "donation" agreement which is probably an innovation in industrial circles, is only possible because of the exceptionally friendly relations between the management and the employes, The News-Journal was informed.

The Empire-Amalgamated relations have always been regarded as among the best in the entire steel industry in the nation.

FIND BATTERED BODY BY TRACKS

Victim Believed to Have Been Hit by Train; Unidentified for Seven Hours.

Struck by a Pennsylvania train, probably about midnight, the mangled body of a man identified as Eugene Truman, 34, Lida street and Longview avenue, was found shortly after 5 a. m. today between the double tracks near the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company plant.

Dr. D. C. Lavender, acting coroner, said Truman was accidentally killed as he walked along the tracks.

The body was identified at noon today at the Wappner Funeral home by the victim's mother, Mrs. Oliver Williams, and a brother, Walter Truman, both of Mansfield. Identification was made from Truman's clothing, a gray work shirt and gray overall trousers.

County and city officers said the body was mangled beyond recognition, with the chest crushed, back broken and both legs nearly severed.

The body was first seen about 5 a. m. by the members of the crew of a passenger train who notified the operator at the crossing tower near the Pennsylvania station. He reported the accident to Sheriff E. P. Long.

Truman lived alone and operated a junk business, relatives told authorities. He was single and is survived by his parents and his brother, Walter.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete at noon today. The body was held at the funeral home.

BERRY LOSES CONTEST

Beaten in Race for Nomination for Second Term in Senate in Tennessee Primary.

(By International News Service)

JACKSON, Ky.—Blood smeared the final page of Kentucky's bitter primary campaign today with the slaying of a former sheriff and the wounding of two other men as the sensational climax to a political row.

All involved were prominent in the opposing camps of Gov. A. B. Chandler and U. S. Senator Alben W. Barkley, seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination.

Ex-Sheriff Slain.

The victims of the affray late last night were former Sheriff Lee Combs, who died shortly after being rushed to the hospital, his brother, Lewis, and the present sheriff, Walter Deaton.

Lewis Combs named their assailant to police as William Combs, a distant cousin and county campaign manager for Sen. Barkley. Lewis is the county chairman for Gov. Chandler. Critically wounded in the back, he was given only a slight chance to recover today.

The shooting took place on the stairway of a building in the heart of downtown Jackson, outside the Barkley headquarters on the second floor.

It occurred less than 36 hours before the polls opened to settle the contest between Chandler and Barkley that has split the Democratic party in Kentucky wide open.

Once Good Friends.

It was recalled that William and Lee Combs had run together eight years ago when Lee was elected sheriff and "Bill" won the post of county jailer, the job he still holds.

They had been known as fast friends until the dispute developed between Chandler and Barkley.

William Combs fled after the shooting and escaped in the confusion. The headquarters was still crowded with Barkley followers who had attended a final meeting that broke up a few minutes before.

Police Chief A. S. Sizemore said a search would be started for him today unless he surrenders.

Kills Ferocious Escaped Grizzly As It Charges Him

PITTSBURGH — (INS) — A 350-pound grizzly bear which broke out of its cage in Highland Park zoo early today and threw the heavily-populated residential district into turmoil was shot and killed by Zoo Superintendent Arnold J. Schauman at it charged at him.

Schauman fired four shots at the beast, eight feet tall on its hind legs, as it charged from a tunnel near a reservoir.

The bear was cornered in the tunnel by Police Sergeant Ralph Barton who had raced to the scene when a painter, Leo Dippeold, 35, came rushing through the park with cries that a bear had attacked him.

Barton fired with a sub-machine gun at the beast as it attempted to leave its hiding place. Police Inspector Joseph Walker fired with his service revolver. The bear fell wounded but managed to crawl back into the tunnel.

Schauman posted himself at the opposite end while Sergeant Barton chased the wounded animal out. Schauman's shots from a .30-.30 caliber rifle ended the bear's existence at it charged at him.

Defense Counsel Shakes Boy's Story In Bizzarre Maine Case

SOUTH PARIS, Me. — (U.P.) — Counsel defending Francis M. Carroll against a charge of murdering Dr. James G. Littlefield drew from Paul Dwyer today the reluctant admission that he was told the only fingerprints and footprints found at the scene of the slaying were those of Dwyer and the victim.

Dwyer, 19, himself serving a life term for the murder, repudiated his confession and named Carroll, father of the only girl he said he ever loved, as the "real slayer."

The defense lawyer, Clyde R. Chapman, asked Dwyer on cross examination:

"Have you been informed that bloody fingerprints and footprints of Dr Littlefield and you have been found in your house?" (Dr. Littlefield was slain last Oct. 13 at the Dwyer home.)

"Yes," Dwyer answered.

"Have you not been informed that the only prints found were those of Dr. Littlefield and you?"

"Yes."

Chapman succeeded yesterday in forcing Dwyer to admit he lied about the slaying of Mrs. Littlefield.

The youth admitted he lied when he said Carroll handcuffed him to the wheel of his car while the deputy sheriff was killing Mrs. Littlefield. He conceded he told it at the prison after he "decided to accuse Carroll."

SCANDINAVIA TOPIC FOR SENIOR SOROSIS

Club Will Start 52nd Year With Program on Far North Countries; Annual Washington Tea, Christmas Party Scheduled.

SCANDINAVIAN countries will form the major part of the study program of the Mansfield Senior Sorosis this year when the organization starts its 52nd year of club work. In addition to tentative plans for continuing welfare work in the city, a number of social events have been scheduled.

Although a picnic has been planned for Aug. 17 at South park at 12 o'clock, the first regular meeting of the Sorosis will be held Oct. 4 with Mrs. H. L. Creveling serving as hostess and Mrs. O. G. Place, program chairman, talking on the program. Mrs. W. W. Purdy is the picnic chairman.

Miss Caroline Lampert will launch the discussion of the topic with a paper on Scandinavia. The political, geographical and literary background of Norway, Sweden and Denmark will be discussed throughout the year.

Continuing the custom of a Washington birthday party, the organization will be entertained Feb. 22 at an affair at the home of Mrs. F. W. Bloor. Mrs. Creveling, Mrs. S. D. Hoover, Mrs. Place, Mrs. Fred Troll, Mrs. H. D. Bishop and Miss Anna Proctor are on the committee. The club will also have a Christmas party Dec. 20 at the home of Mrs. W. R. King. Those in charge are Mrs. W. J. Bishop, Mrs. A. E. Courtney, Miss Mary Lampert and Mrs. W. H. Gifford.

At the final meeting the group will entertain members of the Junior Sorosis on April 18. The program committee is in charge of arrangements. Members in addition to Mrs. Place are Miss Proctor, Mrs. W. J. Bishop, Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. King.

Joseph Mathews Talks To Group

Rev. Joseph Mathews, teacher of Bible classes, was the guest speaker yesterday at the meeting of Circle Three of the Women's guild of the First Presbyaerian church. Mrs. A. B. M. White, 29 Highland avenue, was the hostess to the 12 guests.

The speaker read from Exodus and told of the testing of the faith of the children of Israel and the significance of that story. Luncheon was served by Mrs. White assisted by Mrs. C. C. Secrist and Miss Dorothy Stephenson.

Mrs. Harvey Lanehart, 202 Bennett street, will be hostess for the Sept. 1 meeting. The entire guild will have a picnic at South park Aug. 18 with Circle Four in charge of arrangements.

GOING TO LAKE.

When members of Sigma Gamma Chi met at the home of Miss Dorothy Meister, 61 South Adams street, yesterday they planned to leave Aug. 21 for a week's vacation at Rye Beach on Lake Erie. A social hour followed the session, and Miss Mildred Collins, 268 Hedges street, was named hostess for the Aug. 18 meeting.

Committees Plan Welfare Work at Meets This Week

During the past few days several of the committees of the Women of the Moose met to discuss arrangements for work in the coming club year. The making of comforts and canning of fruit was done by members of the homemaking committee at their recent session. These articles will be used for welfare work by the organization.

Mrs. Helen Costin, East Mansfield, was hostess to the library committee which is distributing magazines and books to the infirmary and Ohio State reformatory this week. Two scrap books to be placed in the children's ward of the hospital were presented by Mrs. Stella Beal.

Plans were completed for the membership drive at the meeting of the membership committee at the home of Mrs. Margaret Ritchie, 147 Reba avenue. A benefit card party was also discussed, but complete arrangements were not made.

Various social affairs will be sponsored by the child care and training committee throughout the fall and winter, it was announced at the meeting of the group at the home of Mrs. Grace Koozer, Ashland road. During the session the members discussed habit forming in small children.

GIVES GARDEN PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Cunningham, Kansas City, Mo., who spent the past two days visiting Mr. Cunningham's mother, Mrs. Clyde Neff, Buckeye avenue, were guests of honor at a garden party and wiener roast given Wednesday evening at the home on Buckeye street. About 25 couples were entertained. Mr. Neff, who celebrated his birthday Tuesday, was honored when a large cake was presented to him by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edmonstone.

CITY ASKS BIDS ON FIRE STATION

Board of Control to Accept Estimates on New Building Until Aug. 23.

The city board of control today called for bids on the construction of a new No. 2 fire station to be located at the site of the present structure on North Main street at the Erie railroad.

Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert said sealed proposals will be accepted by the board of control until noon, Aug. 22.

Specifications call for the general construction work, including plumbing, furnace heating and electrical wiring. They also state that the building shall be one-story construction of red brick, 40 feet wide and 50 feet deep with an apparatus room and dormitory accommodations for six men.

The plans also call for the razing of the 30-year-old structure by the successful bidder who will be allowed to salvage the materials.

Styert said that when actual work on the building is started that equipment at the station will be housed in one of the buildings at the Ohio Brass company until the new quarters are completed. He hopes to have the station ready for occupancy by Dec. 1.

The total cost of the new building is not expected to exceed $8,000.

FACES TRIAL IN JUVENILE CASE

Woman Denies Charge of Contributing to Son's Delinquency.

Pleading innocent when arraigned before Probate Judge C. J. Anderson yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Nina Sweval, 34, Lincoln Heights, was ordered to go on trial Sept. 21 on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of her 14-year-old son.

The jury trial was granted at the request of Mrs. Sweval, who was arrested on a warrant signed by a neighbor, Mrs. Edith Tupps.

The affidavit charged that Mrs. Sweval had permitted her son to become intoxicated at a recent party at her home

ALIEN PASSES 9TH TEST

MARTINEZ, Cal. —(U.P.)— When Orazio Abono finally succeeded in passing his ninth examination for citizenship, he was so elated that he leaped from his chair in the court room and ran and kissed the American flag. The court declared that his persistence in taking nine examinations was enough to entitle him to citizenship even if he did not get all of the answers correct.

Widen Hunt For Her Slayer

Though several suspects have been quizzed by police at Sioux Falls, S. D., in the abduction-muder of Betty Schnaidt, 17, authorities launched a wider search for the unknown slayer. Miss Schnaidt apparently was seized from the home of a couple while she was caring for their young son. Her body was found 140 miles away near St. Charles.

PEACH PRICES CLIMB SHARPLY AS REGULAR SEASON ADVANCES

Peaches have made an astounding leap in price within the last few weeks, a jump that is the more confusing because of the advance into the regular season.

A few weeks ago it was possible to buy this fruit for canning for as low as $1.75 a bushel; today the big fancy peaches are selling for around $3.35 and $3.50 a bushel. The Hale variety is coming in from Indiana where the crop is limited due to frost damage early in the spring.

The price of peaches, however, is in keeping with prices of food in most classifications. Sweet corn still sells for 20 and 25 cents a dozen, despite a large crop, and lima beans are just as expensive now as they were last Christmas when they were being shipped in from California.

A few vegetables have dropped considerably — green and yellow string beans and new beets, as well as tomatoes as the home-grown crop increases.

Watermelons and all kinds of cantaloupes and fancy melons are plentiful and of good quality. Apples and blackberries head the homegrowh fruits.

Red malaga grapes made their appearance this week, making three kinds of grapes on the market now, the dark blue Californias, the white seedless and the malagas. Apricots and plums add color and variety to fruit displays this week.

There are a half dozen varieties of squash, asparagus, new carrots and endive on the week-end markets.

Bad Handwriting Saves Motorist On Drunk Charge

NEW BRITAIN, Conn. —(INS)— Frank Zotter, 20, actually "wrote himself" out of a drunken driving charge.

When he was arrested he was asked to write his name, which he did with some difficulty.

At the trial when two physicians disagreed as to whether he was drunk or not when arrested, the name writing seemed against him.

At the suggestion of his counsel, Zotter attempted to write his name again for comparison.

In doing it he not only broke two pencil points, but his writing was much worse than when he was charged with being intoxicated.

Judge Stanley J. Traceski dismissed the case.

JUST A FISH

10-Pounder Falls on Car and Driver Thinks It a 'Bomb.'

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore.—(U.P.) —The first "mysterious aerial bombing" to occur on the Pacific coast occurred here when what is believed to have been at least a 10-pound fish hurtled down through a tree and struck the rear trunk of Francis McCarthy's automobile, inflicting a large dent.

Although the fish is believed to have fallen from or been thrown from an airplane that was heard flying overhead about the time the "bombing" occurred, a police investigation revealed no clews.

3 HISTORICAL NOVELS HEAD NEW VOLUMES

2 Wars, Trade in Opium Give Material for Library Additions.

Three novels of historical import head the list of 10 new fiction volumes that are ready for circulation at the Public library. "An Infamous Army" describes the army with which the Duke of Wellington defeated Napoleon at Waterloo. Woven into the many quarreling factions that Wellington was expected to unite is the love story of Lady Barbara Childe and Colonel Charles Audley. The gay society of Brussels contrasts oddly with the excitement of the Hundred Days and the battle of Waterloo.

Another novel deals with the time of the dangerous opium trade 100 years ago The title is "Their Ships Were Broken" and it was written by Constance Wright. The third novel in the historical group is "The Golden Knight" by George Challis. This tells of the pursuit and final imprisonment of Richard The Lion-Hearted by Leopold, Duke of Austria, when the golden knight crossed the country as a fugitive.

Other fiction is "Arizona Ranger" by Leslie; "Dark Cavalier," by Rath; "They Talked of Poison," by Evermay. "The Strumpet Sea," Williams, "Wedding March," by Onions; "Blue Gold," Getty; and "Lisa Vale," Prouty.

Traveling by Photographs.

For those who do their traveling in an arm chair at home, there are two new books of photographs by J. Dixon-Scott which will widen their vistas. "English Countries" and a companion volume, "Scottish Countries," contain many beautiful scenes. The informal paragraph of explanation beneath each picture gives one a feeling of being personally conducted through lands rich in history and tradition

"On My Own," by Mary Knight, covers the life of a southern girl who changed her shy self into an exceedingly successful reporter, the only woman staff correspondent for the United Press

"The Syrian Desert, Caravana Travel and Exploration," by Christina Phelps Grant, is an interesting account of travel across the desert down through the ages, from the days of ancient caravans to the present era of mechanical transport.

Other non-fiction are. "Eternal Gospel," by Jones, "Cactus and Its Home," Shreve, "Domestic Silver of Great Britain and Ireland," Wenham, "Tressler Quiz," Tressler; "Gates and Other Poems," by Sister Madeleva, "Essays Formal and Informal," collected and edited by Scott and Zeitlin; "Essays from Five Centuries," edited by Hastings and Mason; "Letters of Hans von Bulow to Richard Wagner and Others," by Bulow; "Eat and Keep Fit," Buckstein, "Pius XI: Apostle of Peace," Browne-Olf, "Goodbye, West Country," Williamson, "Annals of the Early Settlers Association of the Western Reserve: Proceedings, 1934, 1935, 1936," compiled by Knight.

Reference books added this week are: "Composers in America," by Reis; "Crowell's Handbook for Readers and Writers," by Gerwig; "American Medical Directory," 15th edition 1938.

Don't judge a man by his size. The biggest fiddle in the orchestra plays the fewest notes.

PLANS APPEAL

Industrial Commission Hit by Court's Ruling.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—The state industrial commission today considered an appeal to the state supreme court from an appellate court decision here which declared unconstitutional the regional board plan under which the commission hears compensation claim cases.

Thomas Gregory, commission chairman, said the commission had taken precautionary measures against such an unfavorable ruling which might throw hundreds of settled claims into litigation.

Gregory said the commission itself had checked the regional board findings, especially when payments were allowed.

The appellate court's decision ruled against delegation by the commission of the duty of hearing cases to four regional boards in the state.

The court's unanimous opinion recognized the physical limitations of the commission to hear all cases but decided it had no power to delegate its authority.

CAR BLOWN INTO RIVER

MARIETTA—(INS)—Mrs. Mary Carter parked her automobile on a street and when she returned bystanders told her the wind had blown the machine into the Muskingum river. Mechanics with a tow car grappled for it and confirmed the story. They said the strong windstorm had started the car rolling down the embankment.

Mansfield Host to District Tournament Games Sunday; Experts Change Views Regarding Bucs.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

SOFTBALL FANS will be offered a program packed with class Sunday when the delayed opening round games in the district tournament will be presented at League park.

Five games involving the strongest aggregations in the north central Ohio district have been paired for action by Director Don Cram, and they should produce the finest brand of softball witnessed in the city this season.

Mace Brown

Mansfield will be represented by the DeLuxe Cabs, Beeber-Ross Beers and Hartman Electrics. The championship may be carted out of the city, but the Mansfield teams are expected to be factors in the elimination.

Spectators who go for closely-fought games rather than slugfests will probably find Sunday's games right down their alley. Virtually all of the outstanding softball hurlers in this section of the woods will be on display at League park.

Among the hurlers slated to strut their wares at the Wooster road park are Mike Bodner of Ashland, who has two no-hit games to his credit this season; Ben Fried, one of the Galion sector's finest, and, of course, Jimmy Fullager of the Beeber-Ross club, who can throw with the best of 'em.

• • •

So for an afternoon of entertaining softball, it would be impossible to recommend a more attractive program than the tournament at League park.

Hurling Big Factor In Pittsburgh's Rise.

PITTSBURGH'S PIRATES have not been taken seriously since the golden days of Fred Clarke and Honus Wagner. They were not taken seriously in 1925 and 1927, their most recent pennant years, and they are not causing as much fear this season as other teams would in the same position.

However, a number of experts are changing their views in regard to Pie Traynor's present ensemble. They have noted a change in the Pittsburgh team. The Pittsburgh players are playing together more as a team instead of individualists, and the Pennsylvanians will probably finish first if the same co-operative spirit continues.

Several reasons are given by Pittsburgh observers for the Pirates' current rampage. They point to the exceptional hurling by Recruit Russ Bauers and Bob Klinger, superlative relief pitching by Mace Brown, third base play of Lee Handley, Paul Waner's sudden return to form, Johnny Rizzo's development as an outfielder and Al Todd's steady catching.

Trotting horses have clipped 12¾ seconds off the mile record in the last 50 years. Running horses have become only 5¼ seconds faster during the same period. Change from high-wheeled sulkies to bicycle-wheeled, roller-bearing contraptions now used, accounts for only two seconds of the improved time for harness horses, horsemen tell us. Remainder of the credit is due to improvement of the breed.

A complete recreation program is being sponsored for WPA employes this year at the Armory grounds with Jeff Holmquist in charge of baseball and softball activities.

Several softball teams have already been organized at the park, and an additional number will be formed in an attempt to organize a league, Holmquist said.

A meeting to discuss plans for a league will be held at the park at 5 p. m. today, and managers of teams and WPA employes who are not affiliated with any clubs are urged to attend, Holmquist stated.

Baseball classes for sons of WPA employes will be conducted by Holmquist. The first class will be held at the park at 10 a. m. Tuesday and the next will be held Thursday morning. These classes will continue throughout the summer.

Baseball clubs will be formed, and a series of games will be arranged by Holmquist.

The WPA has equipment for various recreation activities at the park, including ping pong, volleyball, horseshoes, croquet, and boxing. Holmquist, a bag punching expert, also has erected a punching bag at the park.

The WPA, which is sponsoring these activities for its employes, has obtained the park for Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings of each week, and every afternoon.

New Member Paces Field In Qualifier

Chalks Up Snappy 75 in Title Bid in Mansfield; Meets John Warden.

A GOLFER who has played the course fewer than 10 times today loomed as the "man to beat" in the annual elimination at Westbrook Country club.

Burleigh Drummond, a member of the Mansfield club less than a month, won the 18-hole medal honors with a snappy 75 in this year's tournament to establish himself as the favorite.

Paired With Warden.

Drummond, who was recently transferred to the Westinghouse offices in this city from Chicago, will meet John Warden of Shelby in a first round match sometime this week.

Championship golf is nothing new to the former Chicago amateur star. He won the Brookwood club championship of Chicago in 1936, and finished well among the leaders in various other amateur events in that city during his residence there.

Howard Sotzen was the runner-up in the qualifier with a sparkling 77, finishing two strokes ahead of Bill Black, jr., University of Michigan star, and Gene Zediker, who tied for third place.

These were the only scores below 80 in the trials of the tournament in which a successor to Reed Mull, 1937, who now resides in Springfield, will be selected.

Deadline Monday.

First round matches in the tournament must be completed by Monday, according to club attaches. The pairings and qualifying scores follow:

SPORTING DOGS VIE FOR TITLE IN OHIO TRIALS

$1,000 Prize, Silver Trophy to Be Awarded at Kenton on Labor Day.

(By International News Service)

KENTON—The eyes of the sporting dog world are turned toward Kenton with the 12th annual Labor Day Leafy Oak coon dog field trial in mind. Col. Henry J. Pfeiffer has announced a $1,000 stake and a silver "victory" trophy for the winner. The dog that cops this event will be declared the champion coon dog of North America.

The trophy will be presented by Conservation Commissioner L. Wooddell.

Col. Pfeiffer said he expected a gallery of 3,000 persons with more than 300 dogs listed for nomination. The entry books will close Aug. 22. A national Leafy Oak pup derby of registered U. K. C. dogs also is scheduled, with a trophy for the winner.

From Many States.

Dogs are being entered from many states. Kokomo Red, owned by Charles Nolan, of Kokomo, Ind., the first dog to take the championship away from an Ohio dog, and winner of the 1937 Leafy Oak, is expected to compete for the championship again.

Col. Pfeiffer speaks of the Leafy Oak as the Kentucky derby of the sporting dog world.

"It is the premier sporting dog event of the nation and the game of the man of average means, the laboring man and the farmer boy, while the Kentucky derby is a rich man's game," Pfeiffer says. The Leafy Oak always is held on Labor Day.

Ohio dogs are being entered from many parts of the state with Ohio dog-men holding weekly field trials, preparatory to the Leafy Oak. They are determined to bring the purse and trophy back to the Buckeye state.

There will be purse money for each heat. There will be a semi-final and the grand final or Leafy Oak event at the end of the day.

THEATER

THE death of Pearl White marks the end of one of the movie pioneers and the second death among the trio of early stunt stars. Ruth Roland, immensely wealthly, died a year or so ago; Helen Holmes plays occasional small parts in talkies. Pearl White, who was best known for her "Perils of Pauline" serials was better known and possibly a greater drawing card than any woman in pictures today. The amazing feature of her career was that she worked in an era when "stand-ins" and "doubles" were unknown, working long hours, jumping off cliffs, and onto moving trains, riding and shooting like a cowboy, making high water dives and escaping every imaginable peril, only to start in all over again the next day. That was in the days before temperament was a commercial commodity. There are no motion picture players like that today. Their hazardous stunts are done by stunt people and the grueling grind of rehearsals and standing in camera range for hours is done by a stand-in.

* * *

Transport Pilots.

Weaving an exciting story about the lives of the men who pilot transport planes through the sky, "Sky Giant" brings Richard Dix and Chester Morris to the Madison screen today for a two-day engagement. In a big aviation school, headed by a stern ex-army officer, a noted aviator and the old colonel's son clash. Their enmity involves a pretty society girl as well as rivalry in their work. The thrilling climax comes in the frozen wilds of Alaska when their plane crashes on the first lap of a round the world flight. Joan Fontaine is the girl.

* * *

Money Bores Him.

The old story of the millionaire who discards his money to go looking for a girl who is looking for love is attired in a new dress and offered under the title of "I'll Give A Million" at the Ohio. The darkly handsome Warner Baxter is the man who is bored by wealth and Marjorie Weaver is the girl he finds who is looking for love. Peter Lorre, a pop-eyed hobo looks for money and finds it—in a dripping and discarded dress suit. Jean Hersholt and John Carradine are two delightful characters who take part in this gay comedy romance. It's at the Ohio.

Singing Westerns.

Smith Ballew learned to sing while attending the University of Texas and since then he is said to have made more phonograph records than any other person, past or present. He has written about 20 original range songs. Evelyn Daw, who is his leading woman in "Panamint's Bad Man," is also a singer of note and has Metropolitan ambitions. The western film is current at the Majestic, with "David Copperfield." The latter has been re-issued because of its first success and the fact that it has a long list of stars.

Public Murder.

Murder before 20,000 witnesses, with no one being aware of the murder, is the theme of the latest Mr. Moto stories. In "Mr. Moto Gambles" the Oriental detective sets about unraveling an almost impenetrable mystery and is himself marked for murder at a certain hour. Peter Lorre again plays the super detective. Keye Luke, who is identified with the Charlie Chan pictures as Chan's son, is seen in support of Lorre. One of the great Western thrillers of some years ago, "Billy The Kid," with Johnny Mack Brown and Kay Johnson, is the second feature at the Ritz.

STEELS, MOTORS POWERS BEHIND MARKET RALLY

Business Recovery Signs Continue to Influence Stock Speculations.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Renewed buying in steels, motors and rubbers put rallying power behind the stock market today.

Bonds and commodities held about steady. Foreign securities markets were quiet.

Business recover signs continued as a bolstering speculative and investment influence.

Week-end surveys indicated public retail spending had expanded to one of the largest totals since the beginning of summer.

Dun & Bradstreet said hot weather, combined with special August sales drives, lifted retail distribution 3 to 7 per cent above last week. The aggregate, though, was placed at 3 to 10 per cent under the corresponding 1937 period.

The statement of the New York City Federal Reserve bank showed a drop of $7,000,000 in commercial, agricultural and industrial loans for the week ended Wednesday. Loans to brokers and dealers in securities rose $5,000,000.

WESTINGHOUSE TRANSFERS AIR CONDITIONING

Department to Be Centralized at East Springfield, Mass.; Danley Named Manager.

Centralization of the Westinghouse air conditioning department at the East Springfield, Mass., plant will result in the removal of the company's air conditioning sales department from Mansfield to East Springfield about Sept. 1, company officials announced today.

The rapid growth of the air conditioning business, plus the possibilities of the comparatively new industry, were responsible for the reorganization, the company announcement said. The department has been a part of the refrigeration sales division here.

Directs Home Sales.

P. Y. Danley, who has been in charge of sales here, will be manager of the air conditioning department, and will go to East Springfield. With him will go H. F. Hildreth, who will direct the sale of home air conditioning equipment, L. G. Huggins and J. H. Poggemeier.

S. F. Myers, now located in Mansfield, will head the company's division air conditioning sales office in Chicago. He will be assisted by W. C. Goodwin who will go with him from Mansfield to Chicago.

The new department will function as a separate organization and will not be directly associated with the present merchandising division as it has been for the past three years, Westinghouse officials said.

HUNTS GOLD

France Appropriates Fund to Prospect in Holdings.

PARIS—(U.P.)—France is going to make a great effort to become one of the world's gold producing countries.

By a decree 200,000,000 francs (approximately $3,000,000) has been set aside for prospecting the mineral resources of the French colonies and to improve the gold producing methods now in use where the precious metal is to be found.

Although France is by no means one of the leading gold producing countries—it is not among the first 12 producing countries and the total production in 1936 only amounted to seven tons, it is hoped that with the funds now available this amount can be doubled or even tripled in the shortest possible time.

DEPUTIES LOSE JUROR

LITTLE GENERAL GIVEN BIG JOB

Chen Cheng, Small in Stature, Entrusted With Keeping Japs Out of Hankow.

(By Associated Press)

HANKOW, China—If Japanese soldiers or ships approach Hankow, announced objective of their big westward push, the man destined to win acclaim as the defender—or blame as the loser—of this nerve center of Chinese resistance is Chen Cheng, physically smallest of China's politically "Big" generals.

The war has enhanced few Chinese military reputations, it has ended several pre-war top flight generals' careers before firing squads. But the war has added both to General Chen's prestige and to the already imposing list of key positions which he fills.

As governor of Hupeh and defense commissioner of the province's vitally important Wuhan tri-cities (Hankow, Wuchang, Hanyang) General Chen will be Chinese man of the hour when the enemy starts closing in on the present seat of the Chinese government.

As assistant chief of staff, Chen Cheng has a finger on the military pulse. As army political department chief he teaches raw conscripts what they must believe and what they are fighting for. He has the authority and the secret agents necessary to keep a watch on the political activities of government colleagues.

TRACE DIM ERA

Relics Found in Mountain Cave by Scientists.

SALT LAKE CITY—(U.P.)—Relics of an early civilization, hidden for generations in a mountain cave in central Utah, have been unearthed and added to the Brigham Young University museum.

Indian fighting weapons, scraping implements and the bones of animals extinct for many years in this section were included in the cavern find, which university officials said was the most important discovery of its kind in Utah in many years

Fearing that others would descend and carry away the relics, university officials kept the secret of the cave's location until the cavern had been emptied of its contents.

The cave was discovered a year ago by Thomas Walker, a forest ranger.

MARION— (INS) —Twenty-two years ago C. E. Gifford lost his pocketbook in the union station of Troy, N. Y. Now it has been returned to him by the superintendent of the station, who found it lodged in a crevice of the building. It still contained tickets and cards, but two dollars believed to be in it at the time has vanished.

TEMPERAMENT

Gorilla Has to Have Meals on Time, Keepers Find.

CINCINNATI—(U.P.)—Artists in all lines of human endeavor are classified as "temperamental," but in this respect they cannot compare with Susie, the famed gorilla of the Cincinnati Zoo

A rigid deadline on the rehearsal periods of the Zoo Opera company was made recently so that Susie would not be disturbed during her noon and late afternoon feeding periods

Zoo officials said the gorilla was "highly nervous" and that "unusual conditions" excited her at mealtime.

Susie recently attacked the wife of her trainer and the assault was blamed upon irritation caused by the noise of a gas engine that was being used in connection with construction work on the zoo grounds.

MERRILL, Ore. — (U.P.) — H. L. Martin is sure now that the country has gone streamline conscious. Mansfielders to Hear Sawyer at Bucyrus Tomorrow; War Vets Gather Monday.

Two Democratic rallies winding up the primary campaign in this area are scheduled for Saturday noon at Bucyrus and Monday night in Mansfield, party leaders said today.

A delegation of Richland county Democrats will go to Bucyrus Saturday noon to hear an address by Charles Sawyer, candidate for the nomination for governor, who will speak from the Crawford county courthouse steps.

Delegations of Democrats from Mansfield, Shelby, Plymouth and other county towns will form a motor caravan and go to Bucyrus.

Sawyer will appear in Bucyrus at the request of Crawford county Democrats. The visit was not on his schedule.

Vets Coming From 3 Counties.

Richland county backers of Gov. Martin L. Davey for renomination are in charge of a rally for war veterans of three counties at 7:30 p. m. Monday at the Grotto hall, Mansfield. Veterans from Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties have been invited.

Speakers will be Frank Cave, candidate for the nomination for congressman from the 17th district; Atty. George Blecker, Mansfield, both World war veterans, and Congressman John McSweeney, Wooster.

KIWANIS JOIN IN BACKING BONDS

Club Adds Its Endorsement to School Issue; Lodge Also Approves Plan.

Members of the Kiwanis club today had added their endorsement to the proposed school bond issue to be voted on at the Aug. 9 primary election.

More than 50 members of the club yesterday noon heard H. W. Arlin, president of the board of education, and W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, review the building plans.

The club then pledged itself to work for a favorable vote.

"The Kiwanis club is in favor of the proposed school building program in Mansfield and does heartily endorse and approve of the plan," the resolution said.

Fred H. Cahall was program chairman at the meeting.

The Junior Order of American United Mechanics at a meeting last night also endorsed the school bond issue. The lodge's next meeting is set for Aug. 11 at Eagles hall.

GO TO SANDUSKY

Many Expected to Attend Joint Veterans' Events.

A number of Mansfielders are expected to go to Sandusky for the week-end celebration of the 50th anniversary of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Home and to attend the annual reunion of Civil war veterans and affiliated patriotic organizations. Both events will be held jointly this year.

Carl Sattler, Mansfield, is general chairman of the double celebration. A boat ride over to Johnson's Island and to Put-In-Bay will be one of the events for Saturday, with a fish fry on the lawn of the Soldiers Home at 5 p. m. A band concert and campfire are scheduled for Saturday evening.

Sunday morning there will be a reunion program with band concert, a picnic dinner at noon, a parade after the noon hour and an address by Judge E. S. Matthias of the Ohio supreme court.

The Soldiers Home, opened in November, 1888, has housed and cared for approximately 17,000 veterans during the half century.

ONE SLAIN IN KENTUCKY ROW

Workers for Rival Political Candidates Fight; Berry Loses in Tennessee.

bowed into the political wastebasket today by a victorious slate of candidates carrying the banner of Edward H. Crump, veteran "boss" of Memphis.

Crump engineered a clean sweep in yesterday's primary election when another candidate on his ticket defeated the incumbent, Gov. Gordon Browning, making a bid for renomination.

The double-edged victory not only increased the scope of Crump's power to statewide proportions. It will give him an important voice in Washington, as well.

The vote from 2,136 precincts of 2,271 in the state gave for U. S. senator:

Tom Stewart, the Cramp candidate—107,226.

Berry—74,863.

Rep J. Ridley Mitchell—53,640.

For governor:

Prentice Cooper—169,806.

Browning—127,053.

Roy Wallace who withdrew on the eve of the election received slightly more than 1,000 votes.

Cooper, sponsored by Crump, emerged an easier victor than had been expected. It was previously predicted that his main strength lay in Memphis while Browning would poll a large majority in the rural areas and in Knoxville and Nashville. Both predictions fell flat as Cooper's intensive campaign outside his own bailiwick paid heavy dividends.

From the moment he was escorted from his hotel by police and detectives who made themselves a flying wedge through the jammed lobby and sidewalk the roars of the crowds were in Corrigan's ears.

Fully a hundred thousand persons gathered at the Battery. They swarmed over the grass of the park, and were crammed tightly into Bowling Green.

They let out one mighty roar after another as the parade, headed by mounted policemen and flanked by officers on motorcycles, moved slowly past and started the ride up Broadway.

Inspector Louis F. Costuma said there probably were a million persons watching Corrigan in the few blocks from the Battery to City hall.

WIDELY KNOWN BUTLER COUPLE CELEBRATES GOLDEN WEDDING

BUTLER—In the midst of a deluge of flowers, gifts and congratulatory messages, and surrounded by their four children and four grandchildren, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob S. Garber, well known in Butler and throughout the county, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Tuesday at their spacious home here.

The golden wedding dinner Tuesday noon at the Garber home was attended by the immediate members of the family.

Tuesday afternoon and evening when Mr. and Mrs. Garber held "open house" more than 125 guests, many of them from Pennsylvania and distant points in Ohio, participated in the celebration.

Jacob Garber and Miss Maria Swank, both of the Butler community, were married on August 2, 1888, at the home of the bride's parents, only a short distance from the residence where the Garbers have lived since 1892.

Mr. Garber's father was Daniel Garber, well known Civil War veteran of the Butler community. His grandfather, Michael Garber, was one of the pioneer settlers of this section of the state.

While Mr. Garber has followed a number of occupations, for 29 years he served as a rural mail carrier out of Butler.

Since retiring from the mail service, Mr. Garber has devoted considerable time to bee-keeping, and he is recognized as one of the leading apiarists in northern Ohio.

Mr. Garber has been a keen student of American politics and history. His private library on Abraham Lincoln is recognized as one of the best and most complete in the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Garber are the parents of four children, Mrs. Adeline Berthold, of Akron; Dwight W. Garber, of Lexington, Ky.; Paul O. Garber, of Binghampton, N. Y.; and Prof. Clark M. Garber, of Butler, former American school superintendent in northern Alasaka, and widely known as a lecturer and author.

BATTLES FOR LIFE WITH HEAVY WEIGHT ATTACHED TO HIS SKULL

MASSILLON —(U.P.)— With 35 pounds of suspended weight constantly tugging at a tong-like instrument anchored in two small holes in his skull, a Massillon youth today fought death from a fractured and dislocated neck.

The boy—victim of a diving accident—is Joseph Nelson, 13, athlete and president of Washington high school Hi-Y club. Conscious and in good spirits, he asked for a soft drink eight hours after the treatment was begun in Massillon city hospital by Dr. Walter G. Stern, Cleveland orthopedist.

The treatment, it was explained, provides a constant force seven times greater than formerly was available from neck braces used to pull fractured vertebrae back into a straight line for the tedious mending process.

It involved the boring of a hole, a sixteenth of an inch wide, on each side of the boy's skull in which to lodge the "traction tongs." The weights then were attached at the end of pulleys, connected with the tongs and suspended over the head of the bed.

Six feet, five inches tall and weighing about 190 pounds, the young man's body has inched forward in his special hospital bed more than a foot in a night by the continuous tugging of the weights against his skull.

Dr. Stern said the weights gradually would be lessened. The reduced pull then will be used to retain the injured spine in a position to begin healing.

The boy fractured his fourth cervical vertebra when he attempted to demonstrate a "flat dive" in three feet of water last Tuesday.

OFF POLITICS

Labor Convention Refuses to Endorse Candidate.

CINCINNATI— (AP) —The 54th annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Labor wound toward its end today, with delegates' nerves and tempers worn thin by recurrent strife over efforts to endorse Gov. Martin L. Davey's candidacy for renomination.

The strife, which broke out again late yesterday on top of a tumultous session earlier in the week, had the concrete result of putting the federation on record as having endorsed neither Davey nor his opponent for the Democratic nomination, Charles Sawyer. Early in the convention officials expressed a desire to avoid political endorsements.

Akron was awarded the 1939 convention.

INTEREST HIGH IN $49,000 BOND ISSUE AT BUTLER

$90,000 New High School to Be Built With Aid of PWA If Proposal Wins Tuesday.

BUTLER — Interest is running high in the $49,500 bond issue for a new high school building which will be voted upon in the Butler school district at Tuesday's election.

If the bond issue carries a new $90,000 high school building is promised the local community with the aid of PWA funds.

The proposed building will be of fireproof construction, and will house classrooms, laboratories, a gymnasium-auditorium with a seating capacity of 700, library and administrative rooms.

Draft Plans.

Althouse and Jones, Mansfield architect firm, has been retained to draft plans for the new structure.

Included in the Butler district, which will vote on the bond issue, are Butler village, Worthington township and portions of Pike and Brown townships in Knox county.

A similar bond issue voted on several months ago was defeated by a narrow margin.

An official communication to the voters of the Butler district urging the approval of the bond issue has been signed by all five members of the Butler Board of ducation.

Several groups of Butler high school alumni are reported to be campaigning strenuously for the new building.

FERGUSON PAYS ASHLAND VISIT

State Auditor Checks Up on Campaign Activities of State Employes.

ASHLAND—Joseph T. Ferguson, state auditor, was in Ashland Thursday making a check on the activities of state highway, old age pension and other state employes, to determine whether they were performing their duties, or campaigning, it was revealed here.

Ferguson's visit, coming on the third day of the special grand jury session here called by Common Pleas Court Judge C. C. Chapman, followed the visit of Governor Martin L. Davey to Ashland by one day.

After he had conducted his investigation, Ferguson warned state employes that their pay would be cut if they took any time off from their duties.

He also advised pensioners that they should not be intimidated by any person into believing that old age pensions may be cut because of political beliefs.

He stated that regardless of who is governor in Ohio, old age pensions here will be paid as long as there is money to pay them.

Yearick Blasts At Needless Spending of Federal Funds

In an attack on the administration's spending program, C. L. Yearick, Newark, Republican candidate for the nomination for congressman-at-large, today pointed to the Pleasant Hill dam near Loudonville as an example of "the needless outpouring of tax funds."

"If you want to put in an exciting day," he asserted, "just try to find the dam near Loudonville. Even the natives don't know exactly where it is located."

WPA was advanced a total of $27,190,000 for the construction of dams in the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district, he said. Federal funds for the Golden Gate exposition at San Francisco already total more than eight and a quarter million dollars, he added.

"Down in Kentucky, where Senator Barkley is running, the president himself, in his Covington speech, boasted that in six years the government had alloted that state in new kinds of federal expenditures approximately $280,000,000," Yearick stated.

"These figures carry their own comment. They speak more eloquently than anything I could say about them," he added.

A Farmer's Diary

By Calvin A. Byers

AUGUST DROUTH

THESE are hot August days. The leaves of corn and smaller grasses roll up and wither. Only now and then a slight breeze blows. The meadows on the higher slopes are brown, and some of the withered grass is blown from the powdered earth beneath. Little whirlwinds sweep up dust from country roads, and make a zig-zag course across the open fields.

Along the unprotected fence rows, the smooth stones are hot as though they had been heated in a furnace. The heavy clay and top soil along the lowlands, where water stood in the spring, are checked, four-square, by large, deep crevasses, that stand out, in places, like chiseled masonry.

The sun arose large and red, unobstructed by mist or cloud. Before it was an hour high, the heat was oppressive. The slight dew disappeared so quickly it seemed it had not been.

When noon time approaches, the cattle cease to roam the pasture, and seek cool shade along the hedge or clumps of trees near the center. Here they stand, close together, stamping and switching flies from legs and flanks, while at intervals, they pant, with tongues hanging out.

The chickens seek shelter among tall shrubs, or on the shady side of buildings, and breathe rapidly, with open beaks. The faithful house dog lies on the cool damp soil beneath the porch. Yellow butterflies wing low through the shimmering air, unmindful of the heat.

Some streams are dry, and sand and gravel on the uneven beds, glisten in the scorching sun.

Luckily, now, the farmers' tasks are lighter. The harvest of wheat and oats is past, and threshing is nearly over. A man can hunt a shady spot, and rest.

3 CANDIDATES IN DEMOCRATIC CONGRESS RACE

Here Are Brief Sketches of Ashbrook, Cave, and Purdy Who Seek Nomination.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the first of a series of brief sketches on county and district candidates who will be balloted upon at the primary elections next Tuesday. Today's sketches are on candidates for the Democratic nomination for congress from the 17th district.

WILLIAM A. ASHBROOK

A veteran of many campaigns and publisher of the Johnstown Independent, a weekly newspaper, William A. Ashbrook is seeking his 10th term in congress from the 17th district. He first served as state representative from Licking county 33 years ago. He was elected to congress in 1906 and served until the Harding landslide in 1920 when he was defeated by about 100 votes. In 1934, he was elected to the office again and was re-elected two years later. His wife is the former Marie Swank of Bellville. They have five children.

* * *

FRANK CAVE

Frank Cave of Mansfield, a former member of the Ohio general assembly and at present parliamentarian of the Ohio senate, is seeking the Democratic nomination for congressman from the 17th district. Cave served as speaker of the house of representatives in 1933 and 1934. He was elected to the house from Richland county for four terms. In 1934 he was unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor. Cave is a World war veteran and resides on a farm west of Mansfield.

LEE H. PURDY

A middle-aged mechanic and a newcomer in politics, Lee H. Purdy of Warsaw, Coshocton county, is running on a platform of "administrative government free of corruption," in his campaign for the Democratic congressional nomination. Purdy, who has never held a public office, says he can use his engineering experience in government if he wins in the primary and in November. "I have watched the evolution of the industrial machine, but I doubt if the machinery of government has kept pace with it," he said. (A picture of Purdy was not available.)

SHORTEST HIGHWAY

EATON— (INS) —Preble county has the shortest state-maintained highway in Ohio. Extending from state route 122 to the main entrance to Fort St. Clair park, the road measures one-fourth mile long.

BRING 'EM BACK

URBANA — (INS) — Police are quietly circulating a "request" that those who took 258,000 salvaged bricks from a storage lot had better return them at once.

The loss was discovered when the city received an order for 10,000 of the bricks taken from the streets when the C. and L. E. tracks were taken up. The city sold 76,000 of the 334,000 paving bricks before the remainder disappeared.

EX-SLAVE 110

'I'm Liable to Live Another 20 Years,' He Says.

HOUSTON, Tex. —(CP)— Uncle Eli Watts, ex-slave, is 110 years old and says he's "liable to live another 20 years." He has survived five wives.

Uncle Eli loafs most of the time, walks a mile a day for exercise and does some fishing near his home at Fulshear, Tex., where he lives with a 59-year-old daughter.

"Ah used to work all night by de moonlight," he said. "Den ah'd work a thousand head of cattle all day."

Eli was born in Nashville, Tenn., on the Bill Raynor plantation. After slavery was abolished, he worked for the Allen family until the last member died here 10 years ago.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1938.

With the statue of Liberty undergoing extensive repairs, it seems there's no intention of abandoning the idea.

There is now some experimenting with telephones in which the speakers can see each other—which may be expected to revise the complaint to "Wrong face."

Glenn Frank has issued a list of words which he believes should be shunned by candidates in referring to their opponents—but of course only the printable ones are included.

Keep Pensions Out of Politics.

REGARDLESS of the lengths to which chicanery may be condoned in connection with a political campaign, there can be slight tolerance of any attempt to make old-age pensioners of the state believe that continuance of their pension payments is dependent on the nomination and election of some one candidate.

The old-age pension system, as it has been developed in Ohio, is the outgrowth of many years of thought and planning, with a view to providing for the needs of old persons after they are no longer able to earn sufficient to supply themselves with the necessities and comforts of life.

There is still much room for improvement of Ohio's old-age pension system, with necessary expansion in its scope of beneficiaries, but this is at least one field in which humanitarianism and financial considerations should dictate policies and administration, rather than letting it become the plaything of politicians and office seekers.

It is the state of Ohio that pays old-age pensions—and that will continue to do so—NOT any office holder or office seeker!

Three 'Musts' of Traffic Safety.

BETTER law enforcement, plus driver education, plus better highways, constitute the key to automobile accident prevention, according to experts. And none of the three ingredients can be left out if we are to get results.

Better law enforcement doesn't mean tough policemen, and traffic judges who decree the maximum punishment on every possible occasion. It does mean modernized traffic codes, "fixless" tickets, a higher caliber of motor patrolmen in many instances, and judges and prosecutors who do their duty without fear or favor. It means a type of law enforcement whose principal purpose is not punishment, but accident prevention. Often some sound advice will do more to curb a reckless or thoughtless driver, than a fine.

Better driver education requires scientific approach. Drivers must be appealed to on every possible occasion, by the written and spoken word. Messages must be made simple, vivid and memorable. The great majority of drivers involved in accidents can be made into safe car operators. In the case of the small percentage which is congenitally reckless, revocation of licenses seems the only cure.

Accident prevention involves a long pull. It can't be achieved overnight. But properly directed and continuous campaigns, over a period of time, will accomplish much.

Senator Metcalf's Good Record.

ONE of the state offices to be filled at the November election is that of attorney general, an office in which it is highly important to have a man of capacity and courage and one who can be depended upon to perform the duties of his office without fear or favor.

When voters are called upon to choose between candidates at a primary, or at a general election, the past records of the candidates serve as the safest guides of what may be expected in the future.

Judged by the record thus far made by Senator Verner E. Metcalf, of Marietta, Republican candidate for nomination as attorney general, he is the kind of man who could be depended upon to fill that office in a capable, honest, fair and fearless manner.

Experienced as a prosecuting attorney and having been approved by voters in his home county on a number of occasions, Mr. Metcalf carries into his state campaign the advantage of a favorable attitude on the part of voters in the county and district where he is best known. Re-elected state senator in 1936, he was the only Republican member of the senate seeking re-election who survived the Democratic landslide of that year

In his keen insight into relief needs, and also in his work in connection with the senate's investigation of graft and corruption in various state departments, Senator Metcalf has evidenced qualities needed by a man serving in the capacity of attorney general of the state of Ohio.

Republicans of this state will make no mistake in presenting Verner E. Metcalf as their candidate for attorney general.

Complain of Smoke Damage.

WHATEVER need be done by Mansfield city council to eliminate, or at least greatly lessen, the smoke nuisance of which a number of East Fourth street property owners have complained, should be done without unnecessary delay.

Whoever has been in position to note the volumes of black smoke emitted at frequent intervals from some of the chimneys or stacks in that vicinity can readily understand the property damage and inconvenience complained of by the petitioners and can sympathize with them in their plea for abatement of the nuisance.

Modern methods of smoke control make such a condition entirely unnecessary.

The Busy Sheep.

RESEARCH is a wonderful thing. The Sonora Ranch Experiment Station of the great state of Texas wanted to know what a sheep does with his time. So it sent watchers out to shadow a band of sheep, waking and sleeping. The average sheep day is 13.2 hours, the students found. The other 11.8 hours are devoted to sleep.

Thirteen per cent of their waking time the sheep just walk around. Fifty per cent of the time is spent eating. One-third of one per cent is spent drinking water and the same amount licking salt.

The really serious question is what a sheep thinks about when it is just walking around.

Mansfield Has Outgrown Its Public School Buildings

WITHOUT public schools a vast majority of children would be deprived of educational opportunities now recognized as essential.

Only a comparatively few children have access to other than public schools.

Of the total school enrollment of 7,195 in Mansfield in 1937, the public school enrollment was 6,311.

Mansfield's public school buildings have fallen far short of keeping pace with increasing needs.

In 1893, when the first class was graduated from what was then the "new" high school at the corner of Fourth and Bowman streets, there were NINETEEN members in the class. Not until 1905 did the list of graduates pass the fifty mark and 1915 was reached before the graduates numbered above one hundred.

When the last class was graduated from the old high school in 1926 there were 194 members—MORE THAN TEN TIMES AS MANY AS IN THE FIRST CLASS GRADUATED FROM THAT BUILDING.

From then on the gains have been even more rapid—above 200 in 1929; more than 300 for the years 1934, 1935, 1936 and 1937, with a new high of 375 reached this year.

In the 46 years from 1862 to 1907 inclusive, a total of 965 young people were graduated from Mansfield high school.

During the past three years the total of graduates has been 1,015.

In order to provide properly for Mansfield's more than six thousand boys and girls who must depend on the public schools for their education it is necessary that some money be invested in new buildings and to improve sanitary conditions and lighting in the old buildings.

Members of the board of education, who have been chosen by the people of this city to look after the work of operating and maintaining the public school system, have given painstaking study to needs that look well into the future. They are now presenting a carefully formulated plan for a building and modernizing program requiring a total expenditure of $1,000,000.

Of this total it is proposed to secure $550,000 through a bond issue to be voted on next Tuesday—with requirement for a 65 per cent favorable vote to pass.

The other $450,000 would come through a federal grant, which is not to be repaid and on which there will be no interest charge.

In other words it will be possible, under this arrangement, for Mansfield to add the two new junior high school buildings to its public school system for approximately the cost of one building, and also to carry through extensive modernization of a number of grade school buildings.

When it is considered that, under any circumstances, this building program would have to be carried through within a few years, and that the entire cost would then have to be met by local taxation, the wisdom of taking advantage of the federal grant of $450,000 at this time is obvious.

Efforts have been made, during the past several weeks, through meetings at which pictures were shown and talks given, to acquaint all Mansfield voters with the actual dangerous, unsanitary and crowded conditions existing in the present John Simpson Junior high school and in Hedges school, into which a part of the junior high school work has been temporarily crowded, pending erection of another junior high school building.

A large number of organizations, various civic groups and individuals by the thousand have expressed themselves as favoring the school bond issue.

This is one of the rare times in which voters have an opportunity to not only help supply a present need but also to project the benefits of their vote fifty years or more into the future, when children yet unborn will be enjoying public school advantages that can be assured by passage of the school bond proposal next Tuesday.

War Threats Nullify Peace Gains

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Of course every decent human being would be delighted to be convinced by recent London dispatches to the efforts to rid the world of the chief threats against its peace really are gaining ground.

I do not discover, however, from chats with our managers of America's overseas relationships, with army and navy men and with such members of the foreign diplomatic corps as I happen to be confidentially acquainted with that these experts are much impressed by the latest optimistic forecasts from the British chancellory.

Naturally all hope for the best, but hopefulness is the most that many of them express; not confidence.

* * *

PACIFIST NOW, BUT—?

The present British government (or administration, as we would call it), to be sure, is adhering rather strictly to what is fairly describable as a pacifistic policy; a disposition to make plenty of concessions to more belligerent powers to avoid trends in the direction of international friction.

Nevertheless, British pacifistic sentiment is in a majority by a very NARROW majority. Indeed, the harder boiled element maintains that what it deems a wishy-washy attitude on John Bull's part is dangerous.

And the hard-boiled folk may gain control almost any time. If so, it may precipitate matters.

Moreover, the pacifists themselves have just warned Japan to keep hands off British interests in the Orient or take the consequences. It was not exactly an ultimatum, but it verged on one.

* * *

THREATS "EVERYWHERE"

With Japan and China already at war, Japan and Russia, as we know, are having actual warfare on the Manchuokuoan - Siberian border. Even Britain has "warned" Japan recently.

True, the Japanese have their hands so full with China as probably to hesitate to take on Russia, too, let alone Britain. But, on the opposite side, Russia is a bit hesitant to tackle Japan lest it be jumped on from the rear by Germany. And Britain doubtless is hesitant to do much in the Orient lest it expose itself to attack in the Occident.

That is to say, threats of war in one spot are, to a certain extent, antidotes to threats of war somewhere else.

Yet it is war or threatened war everywhere.

* * *

SPANISH COMPLICATIONS

War in Spain tears along, as usual.

Essentially Italy and Germany are on one side—in Spain. Britain and France are on the other side.

Britain and France want Italy and Germany to pull their forces out of Spain, which the Italians and Germans appear semi-willing to do. They do not do it, but they talk about it tentatively.

But another complication arises. The Spanish rebels (a reactionary crowd) have in their ranks a lot of Moors from Spanish Africa. Britain wants them barred, as well as the Italians and Germans. If so, the rebels would be seriously crippled.

* * *

HOPELESSLY SPLIT

But, "No," say the French. "We have a lot of Moors in French Africa. We don't porpose to bar Spanish Moors, because who knows, if we do, how soon Moors may be barred against US?"

Which splits France and England.

The thing is almost hopelessly jumbled up.

* * *

DEMOCRACIES PEACEFUL

Boil it down:

The Americas, Britain and France can be more or less calculated on. They are democracies. They are democracies whose majorities can be guessed at.

Who can guess at the whims of an individual?—a Hitler, a Mussolini or a Stalin?

You and Your Nation's Affairs

Real and Bogus Income.

By GUS W. DYER

Professor of Economics and Sociology, Vanderbilt University.

The president in a recent fireside "dissertation" read a comparison between the national income in 1932—the worst year of the 1929 depression — and the probable national income of 1938—the first year of the present depression.

"In 1932," said the president, "the total national income of all the people in the country had reached the low point of 38 billion dollars in that year. This year 1938, while it is too early to give more than an estimate, we hope that the national income will not fall below 60 billion dollars." The inference is that if the national income reaches the president's hopes in 1938, it will be 22 billion dollars greater than the national income of 1932.

In comparing the national income of 1932 with the national income of 1938, the president overlooks two things vital to such a comparison. The depressed condition of business in 1932 was probably as much due to the fear created by a change in national administration as it was to the economic depression of 1929. The fear of radicalism is more deadly to business in this country than an economic depression. Business has demonstrated the fact over and over again that it can lift itself out of any type of economic depression under constitutional industrial freedom. But American business is always helpless under radical political domination and control. Hence the depression continues.

The second vital consideration ignored by the president in comparing the national incomes of 1932 and 1932 is the fact that the 38 billion dollars income of 1932 was measured by 100 cents gold dollars. The national income of 1938 is measured by a 59 cent (and a fraction) dollars, based on faith alone. In making a comparison of values, the length of the yardsticks used is a vital matter. The president seems to forget this.

In 1932 every dollar held by anyone had a market value, independent of the government, of 100 cents in gold, because every dollar was redeemable in gold. The New Deal dollar designated as having a value of 59 cents plus a fraction is not redeemable in anything. National income measured by such an ethereal dollar as this, at best must be accepted with extreme caution.

But suppose we give this 59 cent dollar full credit for its value as declared by the administration, what do we get in comparing the national income of 1932 with that of 1938? Since the New Deal dollar has a value of less than 60 cents as compared with the gold dollar of 1932, 40 per cent of the estimated national income of 1938 must be subtracted in order to make the comparison intelligible. When this essential subtraction is made, the 60 billion dollars income of 1938 is brought down to 36 billion dollars, or two billion dollars less than the low income of 1932.

Since the administration has increased the national debt more than 15 billion dollars in order to get the country out of the depression, this must now be recorded as a national liability. If we add the 15 billion dollars' loss to the two billion dollars' loss in national income in 1938 as compared with 1932, we find that we are moving back instead of forward at a hazardous rate of speed.

In using national income as a measure of industrial progress and prosperity, it is well to remember that it is only the income that represents goods of value produced or services of value rendered that can be counted properly. A very large part of the New Deal income is made up of the income of the great array of public officials whose services are of very questionable value. A large part of this income counted is made up of money borrowed and spent on government works that will bring no return whatsoever in material values. How much of our income is real and how much is bogus is difficult to determine.

Timely Editorial

Blessings Must Be Paid For.

Along with whisky, smallpox and unemployment, the Indian seems now about to shoulder another of the white man's burdens, for the first time in its racial history, the Sioux tribal council at the Rosebud reservation is proposing to establish a tax system on its people.

The Rosebud council is going about it in a big way, too. Among the forms of taxation which the tribal fathers would institute are the following:

A poll tax, a motor vehicle tax, a dog tax (no inconsiderable item among the Indians), a tax on livestock, an income tax (on Indians in the government service), a tax on permits held by Indians living on tribal and administrative reserves, and a tax on lease contracts.

That is a respectable, not to say a bristling array of taxation—and this in a tribe which did not know what a tax meant before the great white father began the process of educating it.

To the red brother we would say that the benefits of civilization have been well advertised, but they are expensive.—Kansas City Star.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — While the wage-hour bill captured a large share of New Deal headlines, an almost forgotten act aiming at the same purpose has moved quietly into a foremost position among legislation for higher wages and shorter hours.

The Walsh-Healey act, patch-quilted together late one winter night in an almost windowless capitol chamber, took final form about two years ago. Since then it has affected in some degree the wages and hours of an estimated 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 workers.

Its mechanics are comparatively simple. Any manufacturer or dealer wishing to sell goods to the government in quantities of $10,000 or more must agree to produce them with employes working a 40,-hour week, without child or convict labor. Ultimately base wage standards also will be included.

The government's purchases are not great in comparison with those of private industry but government terms have a tendency to impose themselves on a whole industry.

The government once was, willy-nilly, a foremost patron of the so-called sweat-shop operators simply because by law it had to buy from the lowest bidder, and sweat-shop operators could underbid more reputable producers.

* * *

Price Patterns.

THE 40-hour-week terms of the act went into effect at once. Wage minimums must be determined from time to time by the Secretary of Labor after arduous hearings.

The Department just now is engaged in determining a minimum wage to be required of steel companies supplying the government's needs. Sample difficulty.

United States Steel subsidiaries (Big Steel) in Pittsburgh now pay a minimum of 62½ cents an hour for common labor. In Johnstown, Pa., about 70 miles away, Bethlehem Steel (one of Little Steel) has a 57½ cent minimum. CIO representatives stepped in to protest that if the Bethlehem rate is fixed as the "government minimum" it will undermine the wage agreement the union has wth United States Steel.

However, Behlehem officials protested that without this wage differential to offset certain disadvantages. Little Steel can not compete satisfactorily with Big Steel.

Seeking Expansion.

SOME employers have complained that Walsh - Healey terms have generated labor unrest within their plants by requiring higher pay for workmen operating on government contracts than is paid others working beside them on commercial jobs. Yet if the manufacturer raises the wages of all, he is handicapped in bidding on other commercial jobs.

There is almost no limit to the application of the act, since the government buys everything from shoelaces to battleships. It has applied to a half billion dollars of government buying already and the department is seeking an expansion of its field which will multiply its effect.

MORE "RED" TROUBLE

Listen, World!

The Self-Pityers.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THERE are not a great number of incurable diseases. And science and faith are catching up with those we have.

Nor are there many, if any, incurable sins. Given understanding, intelligent co-operation and personal desire, I believe the hardest criminal can cleanse himself of his evil.

But there's one illness which for tenacity and general viciousness has any ailment of flesh or spirit backed off the boards, and that is—SELF PITY.

Once let a mortal become infected with this abomination and nothing short of an act of God can cure him. For never was a disorder developed more fondly or indulged more ecstatically than this malady. Leprosy, cancer, paralysis, bubonic plague, these horrors are recognized, revolted against, by their victims. And a heart-broken wretch will struggle against an addiction to drugs or alcohol.

But there are no struggles or revulsions for the self-pity addict. To the contrary, it is his chief pride and pleasure, power and profit. No trickster ever devised more uses for his peculiar talents than the Self-Pityer finds for his. It is, at once, his favorite indoor sport and flattering spotlight . . . his comfort and cudgel . . . his refuge and racket. With it, he both excuses and amuses himself, evades blame and commands attention.

A normal human being works for his honors. Takes criticism on the chin. Wins his audience by fair means or goes without. All of which is far too slow and chancey a method for the Self-Pityer.

Why go plugging along in obscurity for years when one good Burst of Blubbering will focus all the Kleigs on you in 30 seconds?

Why go to all the bother of being loving, patient and generous or hard-working, studious and thrifty when you can arouse as much sympathy and make as big a touch by pulling one Hard Luck story?

"But surely nobody with pride would descend to such methods!"

Who's talking about pride? We're discussing RESULTS. And large and immediate results are all that interest a Self-Pityer. Nor does he care a hoot how ruthless, selfish, dishonorable or cruel he is, provided he gets what he wants when he wants it.

I doubt if any crime on the calendar is responsible for more human misery and frustration than Self-Pity. As an Invincible Weapon it makes the goriest bludgeon or sharpest stiletto look like a baby's rattle. Consider the "loving" mother who wrecks her children's romances and ties them to her in life-long bondage by her tearful suggestion of approaching death! Or the "sensitive" soul who holds a whole family in abject subjection! Or—that Machine Age phenomenon—the peevish papa who envies his wife's superior paycheck or, if unemployed, makes her pay, with bitter tears, for the crime she commits in being able to support him.

And the beastliest part of the whole performance is that the Self-Pityer, himself, believes his own story and is completely convinced that his methods are justified.

What's the answer? I don't know. But maybe clipping this article, and sending it, special delivery, to your pet Self-Pityer "with my love and hisses" might help!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—If you are roaming the town with nothing particular to do you might look in on that 70-year-old Negro sailor who is running a museum in a cellar off Columbus Circle. It has a sign which says "Captain Charley's Private Museum for Intelligent People" and in it you will find bric-a-brac collected from all over the world.

There are lion skin capes made from the pelts of lions killed in Ethiopia, and shackels that are alleged to have been struck from the legs of a captured naval prisoner aboard the Spanish warship Maria Teresa, at Manila. There are stuffed reptiles and birds, and piles of dried fish. In one corner you will observe a silken gown stripped from a beheaded Chinese priest during the Boxer uprising.

Near at hand is a carved wooden bench which was used as a chopping block for 40 African tribal chiefs who had their heads chopped off.

* * *

CAPTAIN CHARLEY first opened his museum in Harlem but he didn't like it up there. He says too many petty thieves kept lifting his stuff, and bothering him. So he moved to that cellar near Columbus Circle, and he likes that very much.

This museum is great stuff, he believes, and he is preparing to do something really big when the Fair opens.

"I know everybody and everybody knows me," he tells you. "I've got letters from naval commanders and theatrical producers. I was in the navy 16 years. Here is a rhinoceros horn given me by Teddy Roosevelt. I used to be captain of a barge handling munitions, and I was in the Battle of Manila Bay. I was decorated for rescue work when the Titanic sank. I was on the S. S. Carpathia then. And here's a sharpshooter's medal I won when I was on the S. S. Johnstown. Me, sure I'm lucky. Everybody knows me. I was born with a silver spoon in my mouth."

* * *

CHARLEY has other medals too but he admits they are only "lodge buttons." Among his souvenirs is a battered tin bucket which he swears was Al Smith's dinner pail when he worked at the Fulton fish market.

Charley's greatest moment came when he discovered thousands of dollars in an old church. The church was abandoned, and a torrential downpour cracked the walls of the church, revealing the glittering heap of gold. This was in the Philippines, and the Captain says he lived handsomely three years on his share of the discovered booty.

"Sure, I knew everybody," he goes on. "I knew O. Henry when I worked at the Caledonia hotel. And Diamond Jim Brady used to tip me lavishly all the time. I know Jimmy Walker. Here is an interesting arrangement of newspaper clippings, depicting the rise and fall of his political fortunes.

"But I'm waiting for the Fair to open. I've got a thousand dollars worth of jumping lizards, and I'm going to clean up a fortune. That'll be the third fortune I've had. I've lost the other two. But when I get this one I'm going home. I'm going back to Boston where I was born and where my daddy was born before me."

GIRDLER TO GO BEFORE PROBERS NEXT THURSDAY

Republic Chairman to Reply to Murray's Attack on Company's Policies.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Tom Girdler, chairman of the Republic Steel corporation, notified the senate civil liberties committee today that he will appear next Thursday to tell his side of the 1937 "little steel" strike.

The committee invited Girdler to testify but did not subpoena him. His appearance was expected to conclude the four weeks hearing into labor activities of Republic Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

Counsel for Republic Steel, in requesting the hearing, said Girdler wished to reply to an attack by Philip Murray, chairman of the CIO Steel Workers Organizing committee, upon labor policies of the steel company, which he termed "reprehensible."

Question Guardsmen.

Meanwhile, the committee planned to question Ohio National Guard officials concerning the part played by the militia in the steel towns during the latter part of the strike.

The guardsmen also will be questioned concerning a charge by Labor's Non-Partisan league of Ohio, a CIO political organization, that Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith campaigned for Gov. Martin L. Davey with money supplied by Ohio manufacturers.

Davey was assailed by the CIO for the calling out of troops in the little steel strike.

Brig. Gen. Emil F. Marx, adjutant general of the guard, was scheduled to appear either Monday or Tuesday. Others who will testify are Brig. Gen. Frank D. Henderson, Ludwig S. Connelly, William L. Marlin and Maj. Gen. Gilson D. Light. They have not been subpoenaed but agreed to appear voluntarily.

TWO MISSING

Husband Asks Police to Hunt Wife; Boy Disappears.

Police today were asked to search for two persons reported missing from their homes.

William Dean, R. D. 3, Mansfield, told police that his wife Erma, 25, had left home at 9 a. m. yesterday and had not returned. He said she was last seen by friends on East Temple court.

At the same time Mrs. Lucille Bond, rear of 183 North Diamond street, reported her 14-year-old son James was also missing.

She said he was four feet two inches tall, weighed 120 pounds and had two teeth missing in the front of the upper jaw. She said he wore a blue polo shirt and blue trousers.

Mrs. Dean was described as being five feet six inches tall, weighing about 100 pounds and having brown hair. Dean said she wore a blue ensemble and carried a beaded purse.

ACCEPTS BID OF MANSFIELD FIRM

SHELBY—A bid of $3,201.50 for the improvement of High School avenue made by the Mansfield Asphalt company of Mansfield today had been accepted by Mayor D. B. Young.

Although the only bid made, Mayor Young said that it had been accepted due to the fact that the bid was $200 under the engineer's estimate. The estimate made by the engineer was $3,406.50, city officials disclosed. Included in the bid was $37.50 for 300 gallons of asphalt cut back, $924 for 140 tons of asphalt concrete and $2,340 for 4,500 square feet of surface filling. Construction on the street is expected to be started later this month.

STREET FIGHT ENDS IN COURT

One of Three Women Involved Given Suspended Sentence.

As an aftermath to a street fight between three colored women at 27 North Main street yesterday afternoon, one woman was given a suspended jail sentence and assault and battery charges against two others dismissed in municipal court today. The three were Ella Middleton and Lynette Strong, both of 276 Orange street, and Kathleen Ferguson of 311 East Second street.

Acting judge suspended a 60-day jail sentence in the Strong woman's case, on the condition of future good behavior, when she pleaded guilty to the charge. The case against the other two was dismissed when testimony revealed that the altercation had been started by the Strong woman.

He's Optimistic

Sailing for a month's trip to Europe, Reconstruction Finance Corporation Chairman Jesse H. Jones of Texas told reporters in New York he could find no menacing clouds on the business horizon. costs which were increased because of a low operating schedule and none too modern equipment, as well as a change in the base freight rates were advanced by the company in presenting the problem of future operation of the mill up to the union.

In the face of stiff competition from "Little Steel," workers were told it was imperative that operating costs be reduced if Empire was to get new orders of any consequence.

The low rate of operations has made the production of sheet steel particularly expensive here as compared with the production costs of the modern continuous mills of some of the bigger plants.

Old Kodak Wins First Prize In Picture Display

A modest little 31-year-old "Brownie" kodak last night humbled the pride of those camera owners who have the latest and most expensive photographic equipment, when first honors for photography went to a picture made with it.

The first competitive display of the Mansfield Photographic club was held at the Chamber of Commerce last night and a number of attractive pictures were shown. First honors, went to Mrs. Ethel Woodworth, 156 North Mulberry street, an instructor in the WPA school for the blind.

Her subject was the sunlight through the trees of Central park, and was taken from the sidewalk with one of the old fashioned Brownies, that were the fashion shortly after the turn of the century. The picture was a remarkably good study of lights and shadows.

Other displays are planned, according to Al Strachan, president of the club.

HUNT FOR BOGUS CHECK PASSER

Police Receive Complaint From Fourth Street Grocer.

Police today searched for a third bogus check passer who has shown up in the city within the last week after an East Fourth street merchant complained that he had cashed a worthless check.

O. C. Stanley, a grocer at 182 East Fourth street, reported to police on July 18, that he had cashed a $1 check for a youth who gave the name of Robert Sheely. He said it was returned marked "no account." He described the youth as about 16 years old, five feet tall and weighing approximately 110 pounds.

Police said the check made payable to Robert Sheely was drawn on the Farmers Savings and Trust company and bore the signature of Allan Stover.

BOY, 16, HELD

Police Question Youth About Theft of Bicycle.

Police today held a 16-year-old youth, apprehended yesterday, in connection with the theft of a bicycle at North lake park Wednesday night.

Officers said they picked up the youth on West Sixth street with the stolen bicycle still in his possession. The bicycle was turned over to its owner, Robert Konves, 194 North Mulberry street, who had reported the vehicle stolen while he was at North lake park Wednesday night.

been guilty of the accusations, Conley said: "A number of pensioners have told us they wanted to vote for Gov. Davey and asked how to get disabled voters' ballots."

Boyd Wierman, resident state highway engineer in the county, said his employes were working in behalf of Davey, "but not on state time."

"Of course, state highway workers are supporting the governor, but I have heard no reports of them taking time out from work to campaign," he asserted.

Ferguson said state employes' salaries would be cut for any time they spent away from work in the interests of Davey or any other candidate. He also assured pensioners that they would continue to receive their pensions as long as the state has the money to pay them, regardless of who is elected governor.

County board of election officials, who were instructed yesterday by Secretary of State Kennedy to refuse a number of disabled voters' ballots which allegedly had been collected from old age pensioners, said today they expected Kennedy to send an investigator here to examine the applications and ballots that were turned down.

"We welcome help from the state in straightening out this matter," A. F. Porter, election board clerk, said.

Porter added that he had additional information about attempted illegal voting to report to the secretary of state, but declined to divulge the nature of it.

Porter said most of the ballot applications which have been refused either were submitted by persons not legally registered or signed by persons other than registered electors.

The deadline for obtaining sick and disabled voters' ballots is noon Saturday, but they may be marked and returned by registered mail until Tuesday noon, election officials said.

Voters who will be absent on election day next Tuesday may vote at the board of elections office in the courthouse until midnight Saturday.

over Ohio, it played some freak tricks.

Mansfield, Lexington and Ontario had heavy rains but several farmers residing between Lexington and Ontario reported that not a drop of rain had fallen at their farms.

The Massillon area probably was the hardest hit, according to Associated Press. Two dams broke near Crystal lake, letting a deluge of water into the Tuscarawas river, which quickly reached city streets and flooded industrial plants and downtown basements. One plant was forced to close and street car service between Massillon and Canton was stopped when an underpass was flooded.

In Athens county, rivers were changed from almost dry beds into raging rivers that leapt from their banks.

Drops in temperatures over the state varied with probably the greatest at Cincinnati where the mercury fell 20 degrees.

More showers were predicted for tonight and Saturday by the weather bureau.

Despite the rain, the lowest temperatures reported in Mansfield in the last 24 hours was 67 with the high of 89 yesterday afternoon. At noon today it was 85.

Ruth – Adventurous Faith

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 7 is the Book of Ruth, especially Ruth 1:6-18, the Golden Text being 1:15, "Thy people shall be my people and thy God my God.")

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

THE BEAUTIFUL character who is the heroine of the Book of Ruth has not only named this book, but countless thousands of sweet girl babies through the ages. This is one of the choicest idyls of all literature; a love story that has fascinated millions and lost none of its charm through the centuries.

A Classic Love Story.

This story is a classic among stories of lovers because it contains the elements of profound sorrow turned into great joy; of love overcoming prejudice; of noble self-sacrifice richly rewarded in both hero and heroine; of true love sanctioned by religion; of marriage and a life happy ever afterward; and just as the story closes we catch a glimpse of a baby's crib, and hear the sweet music of a babe's cooing, in whose veins is running the blood of Israel's greatest king, and of David's greater Son, the Saviour of both Jew and Moabite. The widowed Naomi and Ruth and the noble Boaz stand out in sharp contrast against the black back-ground of the days of the Judges, those bloody, immoral, idolatrous days, in which these noble souls lived in faith and faithfulness to God, and in love and purity before an evil generation. So the story is a blow at pessimism, for even at its worst the world is not all bad. God always has His "thousands who have not bowed to the knee of Baal." He has never been left without witnesses, even though these be put as "a remnant".

Ruth's Loyalty.

For the expression of loyalty and devotion no human words have ever excelled these words of Ruth, the Moabitess to Naomi, the Jewess: "Intreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest I will go; and where thou lodgest I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." This is supreme devotion, love to the uttermost. But its secret is kinship in the things of the soul—"Thy God shall be my God."

The Book's Purpose.

The purpose of the book is evident in its closing note about Obed, the son born to Boaz and Ruth, from whom sprang Jesse, the father of David. Thus the Gentile Ruth becomes one of the forbears, as to the flesh, of the Lord Jesus Christ, who obliterates all race and class distinctions. How strange it is that among the four women mentioned in the genealogy of Christ in the first chapter of Matthew, are included Rahab, the harlot; Bath-sheba, the adulteress and Ruth, the Gentile.

Truly He is the Saviour of all "Though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool."

YOUTH CROSSES PANAMA WILDS

Swarthmore Graduate Gathers Up Collection of Wildlife in Dangerous Trip.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA—Oliver Pearson, young Swarthmore college graduate, has returned to the Academy of Natural Sciences at Philadelphia with a large collection of wild life he gathered during a hazardous six-months field trip in southwestern Panama.

Rarely visited by white men, Mount Pirre, whence Balboa first looked upon the Pacific ocean 425 years ago, was the base for Pearson's studies of animal habits and his collection of small mammals, wild peccaries and pumas. He was forced to return to civilization by a leg infection. An Indian woman eventually cured the infection with a native salve.

Highlight of his Panama trip was an 11-day voyage of 400 miles in a native dugout canoe down the west coast to a small town on the border of Columbia. The cruise was made with a crew of natives who navigated entirely by a box compass and memory, though at times 120 miles from land.

On the return trip, the water supply went bad and a freighter was hailed for help.

Pearson was able to collect rare opossums and weasels by trading safety pins, soap and cheap mouth organs for them.

The trip was Pearson's second Panama venture. Last year he accompanied Dr. Robert K. Enders of Swarthmore college on another Academy expedition to Chiriqui. Pearson was graduated from Swartmore in 1937 and is associated with the academy's department of mammals

Asserts TVA Made Money on Sale of 'Perfect Jackass'

KNOXVILLE, Tenn.—(AP)—Congressional investigators of the Tennessee Valley Authority heard testimony on the cost of a "perfect jackass."

John B. Blandford, jr., TVA general manager, under cross-examination by Rep. Charles Wolverton (R-NJ) was asked about the TVA's purchase of a jackass which Senator Bridges (R-NH) recently said cost the authority about $2,500.

"What is the truth of the jackass incident?" asked Wolverton.

Blandford said the authority purchased the now-celebrated animal for $290 and sold him for $350, making a $60 profit.

He explained the jackass was bought for "training purposes."

"Then it went up in value under tutelage of TVA," Wolverton commented.

TWO WORLDS + + +

CHAPTER VIII

The two girls soon started off in their search for jobs. Noel had more confidence than she had had before. When you had one job, the chances were you would find another.

But she also knew that dancing was hard on her shoes. The gold sandals, although expensive, were not made for the hard service they had received last night. She'd have to have money for another pair before long, if she stayed at Luigi's.

• • •

Once again she sat in the park and studied the ads. She found several this morning that looked promising. A girl to work in a florist's shop. Noel believed she could do that. But when she made application, the dread word experience bobbed up, and the next thing she knew she was out on the street, courteously but firmly refused.

A girl had to find a job before she could get experience. And she had to get experience before she could get a job. So what could she do? She decided to ask Laurie.

But Laurie hadn't found a job either. She looked so discouraged when Noel got back to the room, that neither of them talked very much. And the next day passed and things were just the same. No jobs for either of them.

That night before they went to bed, Laurie said, "I've been wanting to tell you something about Luigi, Noel He's the one you'll have to watch at the Peacock. They say he's in some kind of a racket I just thought I'd better warn you."

• • •

Noel had more invitations to dance at the Peacock than any of the other girls Sometimes two or three men good-naturedly contended for her dances, each of them holding a string of tickets All the time Noel was conscious of Luigi's pale eyes watching her from his usual seat in the corner of a divan at the far end of the big room. Occasionally when the contention for her dances became heated instead of good-natured, Nick would get up leisurely and stroll over to where Noel stood, not knowing how to settle the matter, and Nick would decide who was to be her partner with a curt wave of his hand, not even saying a word or taking the cigar out of his mouth.

Long before it was time to close the Peacock, Noel was conscious of weariness. She probably wouldn't have noticed it so much, if she hadn't been on her feet most of the day walking about the city in constant search of another job.

Laurie's warning about Luigi had made Noel more determined than ever to get away from here She hated the place enough as it was, but with Luigi's pale eyes on her almost constantly, it was just more than she could bear.

• • •

Once tonight she found his eyes upon her wearing a queer speculative expression. The next thing he had walked up to her and said in his low, secretive voice, "Take it a little earlier, baby. Sit out some of the dances if you're tired."

Never had Noel heard anything that sounded more grateful to her ears. But she was afraid, there was something behind Nick's unusual thoughtfulness. She knew the other girls danced when they were asked, no matter how many times that might be during the evening. They had rests during intermissions only. But the intermissions were very short, at which time they were supposed to sit at the tables and induce the customers to order drinks, which they hardly had time to finish, before the music started again. Another one of Luigi's crazy ideas, Noel had heard one of the girls say while in the dressing room.

But as yet Noel had not taken a seat at any of the tables and tried her hand at coaxing the men to order drinks. That was one thing that she simply had not been able to do.

• • •

During an intermission while Noel was sitting in one of the gilt chairs against the wall, one of the girls passed and stopped for just a second "You'll be able to get away with this as long as the customers are buying long strings of tickets hoping to dance them all with you, but even if you are so darn pretty, you'll probably get fired Nick wants girls that can make the men spend money on drinks, too" She said it all in a whisper and hurried on

Something else happened at Luigi's that night also which made Noel feel uneasy. A young man came up and asked Noel to dance with him, exhibiting a long string of tickets, and said: "Every one of them is for a dance with you"

"But that's against the rules," Noel said quickly. She knew Nick didn't like a girl to dance with the same man more than twice in succession It wasn't good for business. For some of the others, seeing the girl they wanted to dance with, having all her time taken up by the same man, might get discouraged, cash in their tickets and leave.

But this young man was red-haired with hard black eyes, and a rather jutting chin. "I'm going to dance them all with you or else," he said stubbornly.

Noel didn't know what to do While they were dancing the first dance together, she became suddenly conscious that he was looking at her rather queerly. At last he said, "There's something very familiar about you. If I didn't know it was the craziest thing on earth, I'd say that I'd met you at a prom in Washington and danced with you there."

"That wouldn't be at all likely," Noel tried to say calmly. She didn't remember him in the least, but thought it was quite possible that she had danced with him at a prom in Washington. Of course she couldn't remember even one-tenth of the various young men whom she met and danced with during a social season.

"But I still say I've seen you somewhere," he insisted. And then he added, drawing her closer against him, "Anyway, I've met you now, and I'm ready and willing to make up all the time we've lost. What about lunch tomorrow? And the afternoon, on the river? I've got my yacht anchored out there, a nice little craft. You'd be crazy about it. And there wouldn't be any need for you to come back here, if—you didn't want to."

This was the first time a thing like that had happened. Noel's face flamed with angry color. She drew away from his arms. "I don't think I care to dance with you any longer," she said coolly.

She started over to a chair, but at that moment Nick came up. He said in his tight-lipped voice, "I'm going to ask you to leave, Mr. Courtney. I think you have had a little too much to drink."

"You know d . . . well better than that," the red-haired man returned. "But I'll go. It's plain enough to see how things are here. But before I go, I'm going to tell you something. This young lady's name is not Doran at all. She's not what she seems. Her name is—"

Nick interrupted him then, turned to Noel. "You better go to the dressing room, Miss Doran. You probably need a little powder."

Noel was only too glad to obey. When she came back to the dancers, the red-haired young man was gone. Nick was sitting in his usual place on the divan. Everything was going on as usual. She had two partners waiting for her, and had to make a quick decision between them, all the time wondering what the red-haired young man had told Nick. Had he really recognized her? Did Nick know her identity now? But she had no way of knowing, for certainly Nick's dark, almost saturnine fact gave her no clue.

• • •

Noel was more tired, that night when she went home than she had ever been. She didn't know a thing after she retired until she awakened the next morning about 8 to find Laurie fixing a light breakfast for them both.

"It's a lot cheaper to eat here," Laurie said, and produced three slices of golden brown toast. "You are a magician," Noel declared. "How on earth anybody could make such toast on that thing," she indicated the gas rings with a slender pointed finger.

Laurie laughed. "What a little ignoramus you are. But I'll teach you. I'll teach you lots of things."

"You're already doing that," Noel told her, as she began munching the toast.

Laurie than asked what had happened at the Peacock. Noel admitted that things were not going so well.

"Nick's always been crazy about blondes," Laurie said. "I've been afraid he might cause you trouble."

"I'm going to get another job—just you watch and see," Noel said with determination.

ARMY PREPARES TO DEFEND OHIO FROM INVASION

Hostile Forces to Move Up From South, Attempt to Seize Rich Industrial Region.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — The second army, commanded by Major Gen. Hugh A. Drum, will "defend" the industrial areas north of the Ohio river from "hostile" warriors in September.

The "battle" will feature a command post exercise begining Sept. 4. Officers and enlisted men from the regular army, the national guard and the organized reserves of Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Indiana, Kentucky and West Virginia will take part in the engagement.

Aim At Rich Districts.

General Drum outlined a program involving a realistic war situation with invaders moving from the south through the Tennessee hill country bent on "taking" the important districts north of the Ohio.

The second army, with peacetime headquarters in Chicago, is considered by the war department, a vital element in its mobilization machinery. The units from the seven states will assemble at Fort Knox, Ky., to continue the exercise until Sept. 25.

Each will establish headquarters and communication systems. Nearly 500 officers and 2,000 enlisted men will participate.

TIGER NOT EXTINCT

HOBART, Australia—(U.P.)—The Tasmanian marsupial tiger, a rare animal of the "living fossil" class, and which was believed to have become extinct, has been found again, according to the Hobart animal and bird protection board. A sanctuary will be established for the few animals that have been found in an effort to prevent extinction.

Strange Malady Kills Six Children, Baffles Doctors

SCIENCE FAILS TO DIAGNOSE SWIFT DISEASE

Physicians Battling to Save Life of Seventh Victim in Michigan Town.

(By International News Service)

OWOSSO, Mich.—A mysterious disease which has already killed six children, today baffled physicians and scientists as they fought to save the life of a seventh person afflicted with the rare malady.

The death yesterday of Gerald Laza, 5, brought the toll to six and aroused widespread attention to the swiftly-working disease which sets at naught the best scientific minds in the state. Local practitioners and state laboratory diagnosticians feverishly analyzed specimens of the victims' blood in an effort to determine the best methods of combatting the disease.

Transfusion Fails.

Gerald succumbed 24 hours after he was stricken. A blood transfusion failed to halt the swift ravages of the malady.

Near death is his mother, Mrs. Raymond Laza, who contracted the same ailment nearly a week ago, according to her physician, Dr. E. R. McKnight, who admitted he has never encountered the disease before.

"All I can say is that it is a form of dysentery that inflames the lower intestine," he said. "I have never seen another case like Gerald's around here. I would not even hazard a guess as to where it came from nor how long it will last."

Four in One Family.

First to die were the four children of Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Bennett.

Louise, 14 months old, died last Friday; Dorothy, 4, died Saturday; Allen, 3, Sunday, and Leland, 6, Wednesday.

Helen Aldrich, 4, died Sunday.

An appeal to State Health Commissioner Dr. Don W. Gudakunst brought Dr. Robert M. Schultz, a fellow of the Rockefeller Foundation here to study the disease. Dr. Schultz was in Michigan studying dysentery and related diseases.

Trumbull Sure It Will Be First To Count Its Votes

WARREN — (AP) — Trumbull county election board members predicted today this county would be the first in Ohio to report its full vote in the primaries next Tuesday.

The first county in Ohio to be completely equipped with voting machines, its total vote should be tabulated and checked within three hours after the polls close, they said.

The county's precincts have been reduced from 138 to 99. Only four judges and clerks, instead of the usual six, will be on duty in each precinct.

HIT-SKIP DEATH SUSPECT HELD

Cleveland Police Hold WPA Worker, Captured After Accident.

CLEVELAND— (INS) —Joseph Rakos, a WPA worker, was held by police today under a manslaughter charge as the hit-skip driver who struck and killed George H. Roth, 60, as he crossed St. Clair avenue.

Rakos was captured by another motorist. He said that he had felt a slight bump but did not know that he had struck anyone. A second motorist was held by police as the hit-skip driver who struck and seriously injured William Palmer.

UP TO COUNCIL

City Refuses To Pay Taxes Until Mosquitoes Are Conquered.

LANSDOWNE, Pa.—(AP)—Hundreds of residents of this Delaware county community signed a petition today informing borough council that unless something is done about "hordes of mosquitoes" they would refuse to pay taxes.

The citizens complained that their nights "were sleepless," their children denied "the privilege of sunlight and play in the open," and that their gardens "were no longer places of beauty, but of torture."

FEAR SUICIDE

Niagara Police Watch Shore For Missing Dayton Woman.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y.—(U.P.) —Police failed today to find a trace of Mrs. Anna Elgert of Dayton, O., who disappeared from a tourist home near Niagara Falls, Ont., early Thursday.

Rivermen maintained a watch along the banks below the falls in the belief that Mrs. Elgert had fallen or jumped to her death down the steep embankment on the Canadian shore. Her husband, George, told police that she had threatened to commit suicide.

Hot Day-Taft Battle Takes Ohio Spotlight

Up and Down THE STREET

There may be an upward trend in business conditions, but it had little effect on marriage license applications in July, county probate court attaches decided today. With only 25 license applications filed during the month, the total for the year is only 193, compared with 268 to Aug. 1 last year. There were 44 applications last July.

If you're on the waiting list at the Public library for either "The Citadel" or Louis Bromfield's "The Rains Came," you may be interested in knowing that these two books are still tops with Mansfield readers and there's a long waiting list on both of them—27 for "The Citadel," and 23 for the Bromfield novel. The next two favorites with Mansfield readers are "Northwest Passage" and "Gone With the Wind." The Margaret Mitchell book which has Hollywood producers talking to themselves, is still fourth on the local list despite the fact that it has been out for more than two years. Almost as great a record is that of "100,000,000 Guinea Pigs" which is fifth on the list and has been on the reserve list since 1933.

Unless a heavy rain should swell the river alongside the armory to flood proportions, a section beneath the Ashland road bridge will continue to serve as the table tennis "room" for Armory park. With no shelter available at the park, it was necessary to find some spot where the table would be protected against the weather and the space underneath the bridge was selected. Playground officials considered the possibility of a washout, but no one has even got as much as wet feet yet.

After several weeks of inactivity, Gretchen Reighard, Mansfield's girl parachute jumper, will make another leap Sunday at the charity news show at Port Columbus. Her act will be sponsored by the Westinghouse company. The parachute-jumping business, like most others, has been hit this year by the recession, but Gretchen expects more activity in the next month as she will compete in the National Air Races in Cleveland early in September.

Ministers and Lay Delegates Chosen at Conference.

Six pastors and workers of the Free Methodist church were elected as ministerial and lay delegates to the coming general conference at Thursday's session of the sixth annual state conference of the church being held on the Lucas road camp grounds.

Pastors elected are Rev. L. E. Guffey, Galion, Rev. D. W. Wesley, and Rev. G. A. Hall. Lay delegates are P. L. Peoples, Pomeroy, W. F. Guffey, and A. O. Hubbard.

Rev. J. P. Taylor, evangelist, will preach at 7:30 p. m. today. An all-day missionary meeting was a feature of today's conference, with Miss Hazel Johnson, missionary from China as the speaker.

KISSES MOTHER, FOE IN COURT

Jackie Coogan to Press Suit for Accounting Despite Love.

HOLLYWOOD — (U.P.) — Jackie Coogan chose today between his love for his mother and his desire to get an accounting of the money he earned as a child star in the movies. He decided to go ahead with his suit.

He was ready to resume the testimony he began at a deposition hearing yesterday at the offices of attorneys for his mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Bernstein. Jackie and his mother put their arms around each other and kissed during a recess in the hearing. But his love for his mother, he said, does not mean that he will drop the suit scheduled to be heard in November.

DELAYS ACTION ON GRAND JURY

Duffy Marks Time on New Special Panel After Office Admits First One Illegal.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS—With the admittance of the attorney general's office that the special grand jury which probed solicitation of civil service employes for Governor Martin L. Davey's campaign fund was improperly selected, plans for convening a second special grand jury to continue the investigation were held in abeyance today.

Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy said that nothing definite regarding convening the jury would be announced until next week. The special grand jury which indicted 18 Davey aides recommended that another jury be impaneled to continue the probe into alleged administration irregularities.

Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, said in Common Pleas Judge Robert P. Duncan's court yesterday that five of the 15 jurors were legally ineligible to serve.

John Connors, representing J. Freer Bittinger, Ashland, one of the Davey aides indicted, described the five jurors as "professional jurors" and he challenged the right of Duffy to convene the jury.

Judge Duncan gave both sides until Monday to file supplemental briefs before taking the case under consideration. Thus there was little likelihood of a decision until after Tuesday, primary election day.

JAP WAR HERO TAKES OWN LIFE

Unwilling to Accept His Pension, Commits Hari Kari.

TOKYO—(U.P.)—Maj. Gen. Yasuyuki Nishiyama, 85, retired, a hero of the Russo-Japanese war of 1905, committed hari kari today because he was unwilling to accept his pension while his country was going through a period of emergency.

In accordance with the rite of hari kari, or disembowelment with a sword, Gen. Nishiyama dressed ceremoniously, sat before his family shrine, and killed himself. He left a will explaining his motive.

BETS SHARE IN PLANTATION, $2,500 ON GOLFING ABILITY

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO — J. Smith Ferebee, young La Salle street investment broker, set out over four courses today for one of the nation's richest golf stakes—$2,500 and an additional half interest in a $30,000 Virginia plantation.

At the crack of dawn, Ferebee smacked a ball down the fairway of the Olympia Fields course and started his marathon play. During the 15 hours between sunrise and sunset, Ferebee hopes to complete 144 holes of golf, twice over each of the four courses, making a score of 95 or less for each 18 holes. If his score goes over 95 for any one of the rounds he loses the plantation.

The estate, which is in Princess Anne county, Virginia, was purchased for $30,000 two years ago by Ferebee and Fred Tuerk.

Ferebee said he and Tuerk could not agree on the management, neither wanted to buy the other, and neither wanted to go to court. So the wager was made.

To win Ferebee must walk at least 29 3 miles and some golfers, with a flare for mathematics, say he will have to swing 760 times, which is at the rate of five strokes every two minutes, or 24 second to the stroke. That's figuring on the basis of 95 for each round. The eight rounds measure 51,568 yards.

Ferebee will eat and drink "on the run." A physician will accompany him most of the way.

SENATE RIVALS TANGLE OVER EXPENDITURES

Davey Scores Cox at Dayton; Sawyer Calls Governor's Charges 'Silly.'

(By Associated Press)

Arthur H. Day and Robert A. Taft raced down the home stretch of their Republican senatorial campaign today, hurling charges and counter-charges that pushed all other primary races into a hazy background.

While Day, a member of the Ohio supreme court, aimed a new accusation of "wealth and vast interests in public utilities" at his foe last night, Taft asked in a telegram to the senatorial campaign expenditures committee which had demanded a contributions report from him:

"Why does your committee not demand reports from Day instead of making discriminatory demands from me?"

At Washington, the committee said it had received assurances from Taft that he would forward data on his contributions, and added that Day had been asked for similar information.

Davey Scores Cox.

Meanwhile, Gov. Martin L. Davey swung into the Cincinnati area after telling an audience at Dayton that former Gov. James M. Cox, "had been a sour old man ever since he lost the presidency." Cox recently announced he favored the nomination of Charles Sawyer, Davey's opponent for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Sawyer said in a speech at Cleveland that Davey "solicited the support of John L. Lewis and the CIO a year ago, and again within the past three weeks." The candidate said he never had met Lewis and "never had any conversation with him and have never had any emissary from or to him."

Davey said the charge that he sought aid from the CIO was an "infamous lie."

Sawyer accused the governor of creating a "false issue of un-Americanism," and said the "effort is so silly as to be beneath notice of any decent citizen."

Hits Taft In Radio Talk.

Day's latest blast against Taft came in a radio speech, in which he said:

"My opponent has seen fit to issue several statements, the burden of which is, first, that he is not personally wealthy, and second, that he 'understands' his cousins have sold their interest in the Columbia Gas and Electric corporation.

"The word wealthy is a relative term. It is fair to say he is at least somewhere on the borderline approaching a state of wealth.

"In his statements he admits what he terms 'a very minor interest' in the Cincinnati Times-Star company. He owns 1,000 shares in this company, and they are publicly valued at a quarter of a million dollars.

"Does he rate similarly his investment in the American Book company? Does my opponent have a similar very minor interest in the Baltimore and Ohio railroad, the Cincinnati Street Railway company, the Cincinnati Realty company, the Central Trust company, the Covington and Cincinnati Bridge company, the Cincinnati Union Terminal company and the Gruen Watch company, in all of which he is a stockholder and a director?"

Taft's message to the senate committee said he "did not construe your question as to expenditures by other persons to refer to campaign committee legally constituted under Ohio law" and that "the same construction was made by every other candidate of whom I know, including my opponent Arthur H. Day."

FAIR ENOUGH!

No Colored Athlete Has Ever Been Allowed Even To 'Try Out' In Majors

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Jake Powell, a part-time outfielder for the New York Yankees, is riding the pine for 10 days for blurting in an impromptu broadcast on the field in Chicago that he spent his winters doing police work and that his specialty was hitting negroes over the head with his club.

Judge Landis, who tried the case and imposed the penalty, would thus placate the colored clientele of a business which trades under the name of the national game, but has always treated the colored as Adolf Hitler treats the Jews.

If all American employers did the same, the entire colored population of this country would starve, become public charges or go back to slavery. So Powell was only giving expression, in crude, brief wordage, to the unspoken but inflexible policy of the organized baseball industry.

Moreover, his remark was thoughtless and probably untrue, whereas the men who employ him and Judge Landis have given solemn study to the problem and confirmed their decision by their conduct.

* * *

Thus, no colored man ever has been permitted to play ball or even try out for a job in the organized industry, and Babe Ruth, were he a colored man, would not have risen above the rank and pay of the leaky-roof leagues in which dark men operate as semi-pros.

In the semi-pro business, however, for more than a quarter of a century, white men have played on good terms against colored teams. The white men have included major leaguers come down in the world, unemployed minor leaguers, part-time mediocrities playing for a little extra cash and love of the game, and some current major league players out barnstorming after their work was done.

* * *

From the days of Rube Foster, a famous colored pitcher, to the present, the major league teams, as such, have avoided games with colored teams, so there is no line of comparison, but certainly Foster and other individuals would have made good in the most expert company but for the great "verboten." Foster was good, and major league hitters who faced him in informal games admitted that he was ready in all respects but one.

Many of the white players are southern men who would object to colored players, and the national organization of baseball is such that men must be farmed out to minor leagues playing in southern cities where a colored man would be unwelcome on the field in white company. These are practical difficulties which the magnates have had to consider, and it is no fault of theirs that the prejudice exists.

* * *

However, they have been content to respect the prejudice and have never done anything to soften it up, even in northern cities, where public opinion would have approved the granting of an opportunity to a pioneer colored major or minor leaguer.

It is easy to rage at the major leagues and denounce the magnates for bowing to a prejudice that was none of their doing, but if they were to open up the game completely to colored players overnight, they would bring on disorder and defeat the reform. Consistently they would have to impose colored recruits and reserve players on southern communities where they operate, and the south just wouldn't agree.

* * *

But the baseball business does nothing at all about this discrimination, and Powell can argue plausibly that he got his cue from the very men whose hired disciplinarian has benched him for an idle remark.

The Yankees or one of the Chicago teams could easily try the experiment of using a star colored player from one of the semi-pro clubs. The customers would suffer no shock, and the southern white boys would find, after a few games, that it didn't hurt them much, after all.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This is a call to all fans to rally round and make the Warners do something about Marie Wilson.

You know Marie. She's the beautiful, dumb little blond. She's played that beautiful, dumb little blond in movie bits. Now she's played her again—and beautifully—in "Boy Meets Girl." Marie ought to go places fast like a rabbit now.

But you can't tell. The kid ate her heart out for months waiting to hear whether they'd trust her with "Boy Meets Girl." They trusted her finally — Joan Blondell wasn't available. And she worked like ten troupers to make 'em feel they hadn't been hexed into a decision She delivered.

But you can't tell—at the Warner factory. Marie might get a good follow-up to "Boy Meets Girl," but she's just as likely to be thrown back to the R's.

* * *

The Warners traditionally have little luck developing feminine stars. They lured Ruth Chatterton away from Paramount when Ruth was tops, and when they finished with her Ruth was ready for a comeback. Ditto Kay Francis. Kay's making "Curtain Call" now. That's a new title for the one Bette Davis walked out on— and rightly. It's good enough for Kay, though. Anything to finish up her contract. Well, they have revamped the yarn somewhat, and it may be better now.

But Bette Davis, queen of the lot nowadays, had to get off the lot to win that crown After she came back from RKO and "Of Human Bondage" she was a star—but in no time she was fighting her bosses in court. She lost, the studio won. She was a good sport. She came back and made hits—"Marked Woman" and "Jezebel" among them. After "Jezebel" they gave her "Comet Over Broadway" (now "Curtain Call") and Bette wouldn't take it. Took a walk, instead, and suspension. The studio got smart and all is peace again. Bette's making "The Sisters."

* * *

Back to Marie Wilson: She ought to have a chance, even, to play a beautiful girl who isn't dumb Maybe she could, maybe she couldn't—but she's earned the right to try.

Marie, for all her sometimes astounding repartee, is dumb like a fox She planned her movie campaign with artistry. Had a little money, spent it paying rent in advance, buying clothes, a flashy car. She knew you have to put up a front—and that's what she did.

There were times, I reckon, when she wished she could trade in the car on a ham sandwich, but she stuck it out and persistence won her a screen test.

Dumb thing that she is, she sat down and wrote her own script for that test. It was a good script. M-G-M didn't like it but the Warner factory did. They signed her. They've taken up her option again.

The "dumb" stories on Marie are about exhausted. Haven't heard a good one in months. But the slanderers of her mental powers have not let up, by any means. They're even purveying yarns about her Mamma now. Like this:

Mamma goes into a filling station where she owes $5.25. Gives the attendant $3 75. "Give me $1.50 worth of gas and we'll be even," says Mamma.

Now I ask you!

WHAT PRICE PETTING?

Liquor, Love Not Good Mixers

This is another in the series of articles on petting being presented on The News-Journal Woman's Page by the famous authority on problems of love and marriage, Beatrice Fairfax. In these articles Miss Fairfax tells the whys and wherefores of modern youth's "psychological revolution" in regard to petting, and discusses the fundamental dangers of petting along with the attitudes of both the old and young.

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage.

To indulge in heavy petting after drinking is about as safe for the average girl as to clean her gloves and fripperies with gasoline, in a room where an open fire is burning.

This statement is based on hundreds of letters which have come to this column. If you must pet, please be sober when the petting party is launched.

The pity of it is that these petting affairs, which so often end disastrously for girls, are not inspired by love. The majority of them are brought about by some precipitating situation — a few drinks, an automobile drive and a man sufficiently dominating.

Characteristic phrases in a questionnaire issued to young college men, and quoted in a book, "Youth and Sex," are: "a girl is easier to make if she is tight," and "girls who go the limit are generally drunk"; and, again, "an alcoholic glow is a great help all 'round." The author goes on to say, in regard to the attitude of young men, that it is a mixture of inexperience and selfishness. They are out for a good time and the devil take the hindmost.

While we are on the subject of drinks and petting, we might take up the question of good form in the indulgence of liquor. Elizabeth Eldridge, author of a book on etiquette for college girls, has this to say:

"If you are a co-ed who wants to drink, it's well to say to yourself that even the people who think it is smart to drink think it disgusting not to hold their liquor. Few men admire a drunken girl, or enjoy taking care of a sick one; so be certain you can stop before you start."

It seems strange to a co-ed of an older generation that girls who go to good colleges today would need advice of this sort but apparently they do. Equally surprising is the case of a good many girls who put up with the annoyance of half-sober young men rather than go without dates altogether.

To me this seems a forlorn choosing, especially when girls drink not because they enjoy it but because they don't want to appear prudish, old-fashioned, Victorian. Such girls are "flying blind," not knowing at what moment they will bump into dangers so serious that one prefers to leave them to the imagination rather than discuss them in cold print.

The average girl will go pretty far to avoid the reputation of being an "icicle" or "frigid." And the average boy of college age is undeniably a "hunter." Some of them try a romantic approach, but all of them, to resort to college slang, are frankly curious to discover if a girl is a "hot waffle," or a "cold potato." It takes a clever girl to handle the hunters with dexterity

By the time these youths of college age have the price of a marriage license, they are a little suspicious of the girls who are too "easy."

These are the problems which did not confront your mother or your grandmother; in those pre-automobile days when they went on a straw-ride, the chaperone was as conspicuous as the hay.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Aug. 6.

THIS DAY may be notable for the breaking up of stagnant conditions, although it might be advisable to be alert to behind-the-scene activities. In the romantic or emotional life there is quite likely to be a surprising development.

Those whose birthday it is will be gratified by the breaking up of long stagnant conditions, but in this stratagem or intrigue may be necessary. In private life there is need for discretion.

A child born this day may be industrious and hard-working, at the same time tactful and intriguing. It may be rather lax in its private life.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEAD WITH A RIGHT

Most boxing coaches tell a pupil it is sound tactics to lead with the left hand, but almost never to lead an ace against no trump, unless your partner had bid the suit yourself and want him to unblock for you. There are times, however, when the opponent's bidding has made it clear that the ace is the best lead in your hand. If so, go to it!

	♠ A 10 9 8 4 2 ♥ J 6 4 ♦ K 7 ♣ 8 4
♠ Q J 6 5 3 ♥ 9 8 ♦ A 6 2 ♣ J 5 3	N. W. E. S.	♠ K ♥ 10 7 5 3 ♦ Q 10 9 3 ♣ K 10 9 6
	♠ 7 ♥ A K Q 2 ♦ J 8 5 4 ♣ A Q 7 2

Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

West acted exactly as if he had not heard the bidding on this deal. South inaugurated it with 1-Heart, North bid 1-Spade, South 2-Clubs, North 2-Spades, South 2-No Trumps and North 3-No Trumps.

The worst possible lead against that bidding would seem to be a spade, giving the declarer a chance to try to set up the dummy's suit at the outset. West led a fourth-best spade, though, explaining later that he couldn't lead into either of the two suits bid by South. Perfectly true, but what was the matter with the fourth suit, diamonds?

The safest lead would have been the diamond ace, to make sure of two whacks at that possible side entry, but even a small one would have set the contract.

The spade lead, followed by spade leads from the dummy, enabled the declarer to make his contract with two tricks in that suit, four in hearts and three in the minors. A diamond lead would have limited the declarer to one spade trick.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ Q 9 6 ♥ K Q J 3 ♦ 10 3 2 ♣ 9 4 2

	♠ A 8 3 2 ♥ 9 7 6 ♦ A Q J 8 5 ♣ A

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

If South bid 1-Diamond, North 1-Heart, South 1-Spade and North 2-Diamond, here, what is South's next bid?

My Neighbor Says:

Jelled chicken broth often appeals to invalids during warm weather. Mix one tablespoon of granulated gelatin in three tablespoons of cold water. After five minutes dissolve in two cups of boiling, well-seasoned chicken stock. Pour into individual molds and chill until firm. When stiffened cut into one-inch cubes and pile in glass sherbet cups. Sprinkle with minced parsley mixed with a little lemon juice

Browned pears make delicious garnishes for veal or pork chops. Allow half a pear to a portion. Dip each pear into flour and brown it in a little fat in a frying pan. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and cinnamon.

In preparing toast to serve with poached eggs, spread it with highly-seasoned minced ham mixed with a little butter, then reheat it before putting the eggs on top of the slices.

Half a teaspoon of grated orange and lemon rind added to each eight cups of chilled fruit beverages, such as lemon or orangeade, greatly improves the flavor.

Different Ice Creams Are Good

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

THERE WAS a time, and it was not so very long ago, when ice cream was a Sunday dessert. The trouble of making it, and the toil of turning the freezer, kept many a homemaker from serving it often, although she knew it was the family favorite. Now freezing methods and simplified recipes have changed all that, and ice cream may top off a meal any day in the week with very little effort on the part of the cook.

The range of ice cream flavors has increased in the same ratio that the work of making it has decreased. Good old chocolate, vanilla and strawberry have been supplemented with many new fruit and nut flavors. Ice cream, always agreeable and cooling, has joined the ranks of the glamor foods with exotic flavors of spice.

Spiced Prune Variety.

Spiced prune ice cream calls for one can (14½ ounces) evaporated milk, teaspoon unflavored gelatine, tablespoon cold water, one-half teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon cloves, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two cups cooked, seeded prunes, two tablespoons brown sugar, teaspoon vanilla and one cup ground nut meats. Scald the evaporated milk. Soften the gelatine in the tablespoon of cold water, then add it to the hot milk and let it dissolve. Add the spices and the salt to the mixture, stir well, then set aside to chill. Meantime, pit the prunes, which have been cooked with a small amount of sugar, and cut them into tiny pieces. When the milk mixture is thoroughly chilled, whip it until it is stiff. Then add the two tablespoons brown sugar, vanilla, prunes, and nut meats. Mix thoroughly. Pour the entire mixture into the tray of the mechanical refrigerator. After one hour of freezing, stir the mix well, then let it freeze for two or three hours more.

Pumpkin Ice Cream.

Spiced pumpkin ice cream is an especially nice holiday dessert. Ingredients call for one and one-half cups sugar, teaspoon cinnamon, rind, two teaspoons gelatine, one-quarter teaspoon mace or nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon salt, two cups evaporated milk, four egg yolks, one and one-half cups canned pumpkin, teaspoon grated orange rind, two teaspoons, gelatine, one-quarter cup cold water, one cup nut meats and one cup whipping cream. Combine sugar, spices and salt and mix well. Add the milk slowly to this mixture and scald over boiling water. Add the slightly-beaten egg yolks to the pumpkin, then add this to the scalded milk. Soak the gelatine in cold water and add to it the grated orange rind. Now add this mixture to the milk mixture. Return to fire and cook for five minutes, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and chill thoroughly before adding chopped nut meats. Finally fold in whipped cream. Pour into freezing tray of mechanical refrigerator and let freeze for about three hours. This ice cream is especially nice when served in a baked tart shell and garnished with toasted coconut.

Grapes should never be picked until they are fully ripe. There is no other fruit of which this is so emphatically true, since grapes do not improve at all after they are picked from the vines.

When hashing cold meat, add a little chopped parsley to improve the flavor and appearance.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

AS DICKY told me not to delay the game any longer, he twisted his arm away from my clinging fingers, and dashed up the makeshift stairway to the roof.

But there he was stopped most effectually, for as he started to push the trapdoor up, it refused to yield, and with a muttered objurgation he came down the stairs again and made for the door.

"The clever devil!" he said. "He's jammed that door very effectually with something. No use trying to get up that. I'll tip off the troopers, and they'll go up with ladders and make a thorough search of the roof as well as spreading a net for him again."

With his hand under my arm, he was rushing me down the steps, but I pulled back stubbornly.

"Well! what's the matter now?" he demanded impatiently.

"Only this," I said. "Suppose he doubles back again. He's secured the door on his side. Wouldn't it be a good idea if we secured it on this side so it couldn't be opened from above?"

"Sometimes you have almost human intelligence," Dicky commented, but there was that in his voice which made me flush with pleasure. "There are bolts on this side, aren't there? I haven't been up here in so long that Ive forgotton."

"Yes, there are," I told him. "Wait. I'll switch on the light. I didn't dare do it before."

"All right," Dicky said, adding grimly as the light went on:

"Sometime soon, my lady, you're going to spill me the saga of this."

"I'll be glad to," I said demurely, and neither of us spoke again until he had finished shooting home the bolts which made the trap door a secure barrier against anything less forcible than a sledge hammer.

"There!" he said when he had finished. "The attic is safe for democracy or what have you."

He came over to me and slipped his arm around me.

"The wise lady!" he said softly. "Come on down now and attend properly to your guests."

"I know," I said. "I'm fearfully remiss. But I thought somebody ought to trail that man who was stationed on the roof."

"Yes, somebody ought," he agreed, "but that somebody needn't have been you. You anointed little idiot!"

He shook me with rough tenderness, and then rushed me down the attic stairs to the second floor.

"Where is everybody?" I asked, looking around at the deserted corridor.

"Down in the dining room," he answered, "dancing attendance on Queen Olga. Not that she doesn't need attendance," he added soberly. "I guess she's as near a nervous collapse as anybody can be and get by. I heard Lil say she'd better stay just where she is for a little while."

"Katherine?" I queried, with the remembrance of the many times my kinswoman nurse had done us yeoman service in emergencies.

"Is right on the job," he said. "And who do you think made it possible to have her come down? No one but my lady mother, who gave up her front seat at the melodrama to go up and take Katherine's place with the youngsters, and release her for service down here."

Bad Posture Most Common Fault

By MME. QUI VIVE

What's your beauty standing, how's your body standing? When told to stand straight do you hike up one hip, throw your weight on one foot, push up a roll of flesh directly south of your belt buckle? If so, you should have a good spanking. Young or old or middle-age you should be told what's what. Curl your nose at traditions, be modern to the last hair on your undulated head, but don't forget this; practically the only feminite creatures who carry themselves regally and splendidly belong to the old school. About posture nobody gives a thought these days.

Take you. little girl to the baby doctor and he will note her posture; it is so important that children are being watched carefully for defects. Yet young girls and grown women, many of them, actually affect bad posture. They think it's cute to twist the body, slump in the chest, stick out the chin, look like so many question marks.

If this beauty preachment catches the attention of any woman who realizes that slack abdominal muscles mar the contour of her figure, we hope she will pay heed and do as teacher directs. Slinky fibers must be tightened. If they aren't, she's bound to have trouble with the inner organs because liver, stomach, intestinal tract will not function normally.

Slouchy carriage will bring on a condition known as anteroptosis, a dropping of the internal organs, sagging muscles that make the tummy prominent, causing strain on the muscles of the back. If you don't fancy the impressive word "anteroptosis," you can call it the meal-bag figure, which is the same thing. Who would have it? Nobody. Many have acquired it through laziness. They haven't exercised, they have been expert lollers, they have never propelled themselves on shank's mare, as they should. A brisk three-mile walk each day will keep any woman in form.

To attain perfect posture you have but to extend your backbone full-length, pull your abdomen in as close as you can to your spinal column. The chest will lift of its own accord, arms and shoulders will assume an easy pose.

Squatting exercises tone lazy muscles. Hands on hips. Feet far apart. Lower the torso until the buttocks are resting on the heels. Return slowly to first position. There will be a hard muscle pull on thighs, abdomen and hips. That does the business. It tells the muscles to get back to normal where they belong. If any fat cells have settled on you, they will evaporate. That is, if you are faithful to this exercise, do it twice daily for ten minutes.

Posture must always be right. Put on your company figure and keep it. Posture begins in the mind. You must feel good appearance, be light of step. Here's hoping.
